RED MEDDLING UNPOPULAR IN CIO'S AFFAIRS

HIGHER WAGES IN 1947 TOP AIM OF UNIONS

BY JAMES P. HACKETT

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 18 (AP)—The CIO convention—taking time out from talk of higher wages in 1947—today condemned Communist interferences with its unions.

Pushed by President Philip Murray, a policy declaration opposed to Communist activities in union affairs was passed unanimously by 560 delegates to the CIO's eighth convention.

Earlier in a keynote address Murray declared "unprecedented" corporation profits in 1946 were a greater threat to the nation than any threats of Communism.

No Repressive Action
Murray, who pointed the convention toward a higher wage drive in 1947, said the policy declaration was not CIO legislation. He declared "legislation concerning the exclusive property of each of the unions."

With that statement he left CIO action against Communists up to the individual unions.

The CIO president said he would not engage in the "extraneous" of repressive action.

The 350 word declaration concluded with:

"In pursuit of the principles set forth herein and adopted by the CIO executive board, we, the delegates to the eighth constitutional convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, resent and reject efforts of the Communists party or other political parties and their adherents to interfere in the affairs of the CIO."

"This convention serves notice that we will not tolerate such interference."

Republicans Mistaken
Action on the declaration came after Murray in his address punched across these points:

1. The most important business of the convention was to plan for wage increases.
2. The total of business profits after taxes for 1946 was $15,000,000,000, three times 1939 profits.
3. That while the Communist party threatened "our government our institutions," business profits were a "far greater threat than anything that has ever confronted the American people."
4. The Republican party was "mistaken" if it thought its victory in the recent election gave it the

Attempt To Remove Sales Tax On Food Opposed By MEA

Lansing, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Michigan Education Association will oppose "officially and vigorously" an attempt to exempt food from the sales tax, Dr. A. J. Phillips, MEA secretary, said today.

The MEA, through Phillips, appealed to Michigan voters to "give the sales tax diversion amendment a chance to operate before attempting to nullify it by special exemptions."

Organized labor has announced it will try to place on the spring election ballot a constitutional amendment to exempt food from the sales tax.

End Of Pacific Coast Shipping Tieup Sighted

San Francisco, Nov. 18 (AP)—Conclusion of the seven-week-old Pacific Coast Maritime tieup, by the coming week end was in sight tonight, dependent only on settlement of the disputed issues of preferential hiring and Alaskan pilotage pay demanded by AFL dock officers.

The log jam in negotiations was broken yesterday when a settlement was reached between employers and Harry Bridges' CIO

Longshoremen and CIO Marine firemen. Ratification by the rank and file will be asked tomorrow in line with recommendations of the CIO negotiating committee.

With ratification by CIO unions, and settlement of the AFL dock officers' dispute today or tomorrow, an official end of the strike would be possible Wednesday morning. An additional couple of days would be required, however, to get steam up and place the water-front at working pitch.

A statement in New Orleans by Greenville Mellen, a Maritime commission member, that his Washington office had informed him of an end of the strike, found no basis in fact from responsible sources in San Francisco. At Maritime commission offices here, it was said that Mellen presumably had received "erroneous information."

The settlement included a wage increase of approximately eleven per cent for Longshoremen and related dock workers, increasing the basic straight time hourly rate for Longshoremen from $1.37 to $1.52, and a 15 per cent wage increase for Marine engineers, bringing top salaries of chief engineers to $625 a month and over.

Langus had asserted he was holding up the taking of bids and awarding contracts, in addition to slowing up other projects, until the state could determine the effect of passage of the sales tax diversion and veterans' bonus amendments.

Lt. Gov. Vernon J. Brown, a member of the committee, objected today, asserting the committee had no right to countermand the decisions of the legislature and that the program should be pushed as long as funds are available.

The legislature authorized a $41,000,000 program for hospital and colleges, but provided only $30,000,000, asserting it would make the rest available in the 1947 session. Langus has estimated another $25,500,000 is needed because construction costs.

The committee recommended granting Alden B. Down, Midland, a contract for architectural work on a governor's mansion, for which $75,000 has been appropriated. Langus said it would cost probably $150,000 now.

Officer Fires Shot
At Car Thief, Kills
Flint Man In Bed

Flint, Mich., Nov. 18 (AP)—A policeman's bullet, fired in a chase of a stolen car, struck and killed 71-year old William Ray Green as he lay in bed today.

The bullet passed through a window and struck Green in the head as he raised up at the noise of the pursuit, in which several shots were fired.

Green's wife, Grace, who lay beside him, was unhurt.

"It was an accident that wouldn't happen again in a million times," said Ralph Blaney of the Flint State Police Post.

The police overtook the car and arrested a 15-year-old-girl. Her companion fled.

HUNTING DEATH TOLL TOTALS 16

Body Of Detroit Doctor
Found, Victim Of Random Shot

(By The Associated Press)

Michigan counted 16 deer hunters dead today (Monday) in the fourth day of the season as good hunting conditions were reported throughout the state.

Latest fatality was Melvin Dasser, 36, of (Route 2) Cheboygan, who was shot through the back while hunting with his brother and party of eight friends in the southern part of Cheboygan county.

State police said another party of hunters was in the area and declared one of them might have fired the fatal bullet.

One hunter, Dr. C. O. Sarber of Detroit, was found dead in the woods of a gunshot wound. Apparently he was the victim of a random shot from another hunter.

State police, who found the body near Mio in Oscoda county, began an investigation in an attempt to learn the other hunter's identity.

Hunting companions from Detroit had reported Dr. Sarber missing Sunday night and the woods were being beaten in a search for him when the body was discovered. It was taken to a funeral home in West Branch.

George Hunter, 32, of Flint, accidentally shot in the chest by a companion, died in a West Branch hospital. State police said his companion, Christian Seidling of Flint, mistook him for a bear.

The two were hunting Sunday about a half mile west of St. Helen in Roscommon county. After Hunter was shot, Seidling brought him to the West Branch hospital where he died Monday morning.

Another weekend death was that of Robert Mensewitz, 53, Alpena automobile dealer. Mensewitz suffered a fatal heart attack shortly after shooting a buck in Montmorency county and dragging it into camp.

Seven of these victims died from gunshot wounds. Five were killed in motor traffic while four died from heart attacks or other natural causes.

Great Lakes Coal
Shipments Will Go Ahead As Scheduled

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Solid Fuels Administration modified its coal freeze order today to let shipments on the Great Lakes, and to commercial docks on tidewater go ahead as scheduled.

Those along with other coal traffic, had been stopped by Saturday's order so that SFA could redirect them to points where they would be most needed in case of a mine stoppage.

Secretary of the Interior Krug, SFA administrator, pointed out that lake receivers usually must obtain their entire winter supply of coal before the close of navigation around the first of the year, and said some coastwise movement is similarly restricted by weather.

The coal still will be under distribution control after it reaches the receivers.

The same rules apply to Canadian consumers as to Americans.

TRAIN TRAVEL CURB STARTS SUNDAY NIGHT

FREIGHT SHIPMENTS MAY BE INCLUDED IN CURTAILMENT

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—The government today ordered a 25 per cent cut in passenger service provided by coal-burning locomotives starting Sunday night and disclosed that freight restrictions, too, are under consideration.

The order is designed to save 12,000 tons of soft coal a day in view of the threatened strike.

It was promulgated by the office of defense transportation even before the Justice Department obtained its temporary restraining order against John L. Lewis, but it was not announced until shortly afterward. Apparently it will remain in effect at least until the outcome of the legal test set for Nov. 27, but may be lifted quickly then if the strike threat evaporates.

More Restrictions Coming
Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, disclosed in an affidavit supporting the restraining order that "consideration is now being given by the Office of Defense Transportation to restricting freight transportation."

"The first restriction to be issued, as soon as conditions warrant it, will be the elimination of all non-essential traffic," the affidavit continued.

"This will include all export freight to foreign countries, including Canada and Mexico, except food, clothing and medicines."

It added that "additional restrictions will be imposed" after that depending upon the coal supply.

The ODT announcement of the passenger traffic order similarly said that a coal mining stoppage "would result in the curtailment of freight, parcel post, mail and railway express shipments."

Car Loadings At Peak
The order to reduce passenger mileage 25 per cent from the Nov. 1 schedules leaves it up to the individual railroads just where they will cut their services. It becomes effective at 11:59 p. m. (Eastern Standard time—10:59 PCS) next Sunday.

The ODT reported that the railroads have only a 30-day coal supply on hand, on the average. Six roads have 10 to 15 days' supplies, and 10 roads have less than 10 days' supplies.

At the same time car loadings are at the seasonal peak and the roads are carrying a heavier freight volume than at any period since 1930.

"There is a backlog of several hundred thousand carloads of coal," (Continued on Page Two)

MARRIAGE CULT FOUND ILLEGAL

Conviction Of Six For Plural Weddings Is Upheld By Court

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—In a session which found the tribunal's feuding justices, Black and Jackson, agreeing all along the line, the supreme court today upheld the white slave act convictions of six members of a cult practicing plural marriages.

By a 6-3 decision the court ruled the six members of the Fundamentalist Cult in Utah, had violated the federal Mann act prohibiting transportation of women across state lines for prostitution, debauchery "or any other immoral purpose."

None of the day's three opinions was by unanimous vote of the court but Black and Jackson, whose differences were aired publicly last summer, sided together in majority decisions and once in a dissent.

In its decisions today the court divided 5-4, 6-3 and 8-1.

Those convicted, in Salt Lake City, were: Heber Kimball Cleveland, David Brigham Darger, Vergel Y. Jessop, Threl Ray Dockstadler, L. R. Stubbs, and Follis Gardner Petty.

Cult members contended they were obeying God when, already having legal wives, they took one or more girls or women as their brides in cult marriages. When the case was argued, the court was shown a picture of 15 cult men with their 183 children.

Colorful Ex-Mayor Of New York City, Jimmy Walker Dies

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—James J. Walker, 65, former New York mayor and one of the city's most colorful personalities, died tonight at 6:25 p. m. in Doctors hospital.

Walker was taken to the hospital early yesterday morning suffering from a blood clot on the brain and had been in a coma since. He had been in ill health for several months.

Last rites of the Roman Catholic church were performed for him at the hospital yesterday.

Walker's life mirrored the times and the city in which he lived.

When elected mayor in November, 1925, after a career as a lawyer and Democratic state assemblyman and senator, Walker set out to put New York City on the map. His silk topper and suave manner became a symbol on the "mad twenties"—the age of prohibition and get-rich-quick.

He instigated the ticker-tape parades and lavish receptions for Charles A. Lindbergh and other national heroes. He was a gay sports fancier, a first-nighter, a ringside fan. He was orthodox only in his role as a politician, feeling a debt to the party which lifted him to power.

In 1931 he ran against popular opinion by appearing before the governor of California to plead, vainly, for the release from prison of Tom Mooney, who then was serving a life sentence for his alleged part in San Francisco's Preparedness Day parade bombing.

Reelected in 1929, Walker quit his mayor's post during the Seabury investigations which accused him of malfeasance in office and demanded his removal.

He went on trial for his political life before then Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in August, 1932, and two weeks later resigned without completing his defense. He spent the next few years in Europe.

Samuel Seabury, who conducted the probe, later timed his inquiries showed Walker's regime was "characterized by inefficiency, waste and corruption." But Walker's friends maintained he accomplished more in the way of public improvements for the city than any preceding chief executive.

During 15 years in the state legislature Walker sponsored considerable legislation of a liberal character, including bills providing for Sunday baseball and motion pictures. He fathered the Walker boxing law, which legalized boxing in the state, taking it away from the domain of private clubs only. He also sponsored a law requiring the Ku Klux Klan to register its membership with the Secretary of State.

Walker married Janet Allen in 1912. They were divorced in 1933, and Walker married actress Betty Compton at Cannes, France. His second marriage also ended in divorce seven years later. Miss Compton died in 1944.

He settled down to become a gentleman farmer and adopted two children, Mary Ann, now 11, and James J., Jr., 10.

In 1940, Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia appointed him impartial chairman of the city's cloak industry at $20,000 a year. He quit this position to become head of Maltbie Records, Inc., on Feb. 13, 1945.

Judge Won't Quiz
Man Who Said He Saw Hooper Slain

Lansing, Nov. 18 (AP)—Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash, the Ingham county one-man grand juror, decided today not to question Sigmund Wardynski, 38, who claimed, then denied, that he saw State Senator Warren G. Hooper of Alpena shot 22 months ago.

Judge Coash and Special prosecutor Richard B. Foster said they had decided not to question Wardynski after he was brought to their headquarters today "because the state police feel there's nothing to his story."

State Police Detective Lieut. Lyle Morse said he didn't think Wardynski "knows anything about the murder."

Wardynski told Detroit police last week that he was with a former suspect in the case when Hooper, described as an important grand jury witness, was shot, but later repudiated the story.

He has been held in the Ingham county jail at Mason for questioning over the weekend.

LABOR LEFTISTS LOSE IN BRITAIN

Commons Gives Foreign Policy 353-0 Vote
Of Confidence

BY JUDSON O'QUINN

London, Nov. 18 (AP)—The House of Commons gave a 353 to 0 vote of confidence tonight to the Labor government's foreign policy, after Prime Minister Attlee had denied flatly accusations that Britain and the United States were "ganging up" against Russia.

The vote snuffed out a rebellion by 58 leftist labor legislators, who had leveled the accusations against the prime minister and his foreign secretary, Ernest Bevin.

Crowded and tense after three hours of debate, the house shouted down an attempt by the insurgents to withdraw an amendment calling for Britain to steer a course midway between Russia and the United States.

Then, with conservatives teaming with the laborites, the house voted 353 to 0 against the amendment. The labor leftists, who insisted they did not want to force a vote of censure against the government, were among the abstainers.

After the vote of confidence was taken, an amendment expressing regret of the government's plan to continue conscription was defeated, 320 to 53. Parliamentary circles said the number of those supporting the amendment indicated that most of the "rebel" laborites had opposed the government on conscription.

Lumber Prices Up;
Lead, Zinc Oxide
And Soda Ash Rise

New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Prices of lead, zinc oxide, soda ash and caustic soda, and lumber advanced sharply today.

The American Smelting & Refining Co. set the price of pig lead delivered in New York at 11.80 cents a pound, and St. Joseph Lead Co. quickly followed suit. The ceiling price had been 8.25 cents a pound.

The latest increase followed the government's decision to end its foreign lead purchasing program under which it absorbed the import duty and a portion of transportation costs.

American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co. boosted by one cent a pound, in car load lots, the price for zinc oxide, lead free, to a new price of 9 cents a pound for American processed zinc oxide and 11 1/4 cents a pound for French processed.

Lumber dealers reported sales of No. 2 southern, 2 by 4 framing pine, at $65 a 1,000 feet, compared with OPA price of $58.22. Some were said to be asking $95.

Solvay Sales Corp., subsidiary of Allied Chemical & Dye Corp., increased by 10 to 20 cents a hundred pounds the prices of caustic soda and soda ash for 1947 delivery.

HEAD OF UMW TOLD TO CALL OFF WALKOUT

RESTRAINING ORDER IS SENT OUT BY FEDERAL COURT

BY WILLIAM R. SPEAR

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—A federal court today ordered John L. Lewis to haul down his signal for a soft coal strike as President Truman sent four cabinet members on the warpath against him.

A temporary restraining order by Justice T. Alan Goldsborough directed Lewis to tear up his contract termination notice and make no slightest signal that could start a mine walkout. Jail could be the penalty for disobedience.

But already at least 32,000 miners were idle and pits closed down in seven states. The fate of future operations was uncertain. The court order does not compel the miners to work.

Attorney General Clark procured the order with affidavits from the Secretary of War, Navy and Interior, plus five other top officials. They detailed dire consequences that a strike would cause in every phase of the nation's life.

Mr. Truman, vacationing at Key West, Fla., held two telephone conferences apiece with Clark and Secretary of the Interior Krug. His secretary, Charles G. Ross, said that "the president is aware of everything that is being done, and everything that is being done is being done in accordance with his instructions."

The temporary restraining order is the first phase of a legal battle in which the government seeks a declaratory judgment against Lewis which would outlaw any strike or contract termination as long as the government operates the mines.

The order runs until 3 p. m. Nov. 27. At 10 a. m. that day, Justice Goldsborough will consider the government's plea for a temporary injunction pending his final decision, and hear arguments of attorneys for the government and the United Mine Workers.

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO
Key West, Fla., Nov. 18 (AP)—President Truman gave the signal today when the administration cracked the whip that belated a show down fight with John L. Lewis.

His press secretary, Charles G. Ross, told newsmen that Mr. Truman instructed Interior Secretary J. A. Krug to seek an injunction restraining the mine workers' chief from cancelling his work contract with the government.

Ross' assertion, made to a news conference at this naval submarine base where the president is taking a week's rest, took the lid off in its revelation of the president's determination to fight it out to a finish with Lewis.

"No more embarrassing controversies," Truman reportedly instructed Krug before leaving Washington.

SCHEDULE U. P. HIGHWAY JOBS

State Will Receive Bids At Escanaba Dec. 3 On Six Projects

The State Highway Department on December 3 and 4 will determine low bidders on 19 construction projects at its Upper Peninsula office in Escanaba and in Lansing, work on these jobs to be done during the 1947 construction season, according to an announcement by Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

Following are the projects on which bids will be opened at Escanaba, December 3:

4,947 miles of concrete pavement on M-28 in the vicinity of Raco, Chippewa county. Grading for this project recently was completed.

5,967 miles of grading and drainage structures on M-28 from east of Raco to the junction with M-221 in Chippewa county. 5,329 miles of grading and drainage structures and stabilized aggregate surface on M-134 from Albany Island road east toward Detroit, in Chippewa county.

Bridge carrying M-134 relocation over Albany Island creek, 8.5 miles west of Detroit in Chippewa county. (Bids on steel for this bridge also will be taken December 3 as a separate item.)

4,795 miles of grading and drainage structures on the US-2 (Cul River) relocation from Epoufette southeast in Mackinac county.

Bridge carrying US-41 (relocation) over Tioja creek, 3.5 miles west of Nestoria in Baraga county.

13 Arrested for Illegal Hunting

Conservation officers arrested 13 persons in the Escanaba district over the weekend for violations of the hunting laws, it was reported last night from district headquarters office. The disposition of all of the cases was not yet reported.

Arrests made on Nov. 16 and 17 in this conservation district were as follows:

Ronald St. John and Melvin St. John, Manistique, arrested near Nahma Junction for headlighting, arraigned in Justice Oliver C. Estenson's court at Gladstone, paid fines of $25 and costs each.

Art Woodrum, Detroit, arrested west of Republic for having an unsealed deer in his possession.

Gilbert Pomeroy and Edward Lamberg, Ensign Rt. 1, arrested for headlighting in Ensign township, fined $25 and costs in Estenson's court.

Pete Thorsen, Stonington, arrested for headlighting in Bay de Noc township, paid $25 and costs in Justice Estenson's court.

Irving Swanson, Gladstone, charged with headlighting in Bay de Noc township, fined $100 and costs in Estenson's court. Conservation officers said that Swanson had resisted the arresting officer.

John L. Young, Detroit, arrested near Munising for having a loaded gun in his car, paid $25 and costs and Justice Walters court at Munising.

Albert Thornton, Trenary, arrested for headlighting in Alger county; Leo Murk, Marquette, arrested for headlighting near Trenary in Alger county.

Woodrow Keith, Dearborn, arrested near Trenary for transporting a loaded gun in his car; Robert and William Flynn of Trenary, arrested for having a loaded gun in possession in their car.

DIESEL ENGINES HELP

Chicago, Nov. 18 (AP)—Most railroads operating out of Chicago reported tonight they are better equipped to meet the government's order to cut coal consuming passenger service 25 per cent than last spring when a similar curtailment order was issued.

The reason, the railroads said, is that they now have more diesel engines and fewer of the coal burning type.

None of the roads announced details of their curtailment programs to save coal during the threatened mine strike.

Operating officials were going over schedules to determine where trains could be taken off with least interference with essential service.

This was the situation reported by individual lines:

Illinois Central—Widespread dieselization was expected to make it easier for the I. C. to furnish essential transportation, yet reduce passenger service by 3,700 miles daily. Chicago-St. Louis service is entirely dieselized as are many of the principal trains to Florida and New Orleans. One diesel train daily operates between Chicago and Iowa. Electrified Chicago suburban service will not be affected.

Burlington—Main line to the west heavily dieselized. However, many steam trains still are in operation and schedules will have to be curtailed. Chicago western suburban service will be affected because all trains are steam.

Chicago and North Western—About 15 days supply of coal on hand compared with 30 days supply reported by ODT as average for railroads. However, North Western has some new diesel engines. Curtailment will be "balanced" so that no community will be isolated. "Marginal" trains, such as those operating late at night or early in morning, probably will be taken off Chicago suburban service.

New York Central—"The reduction will be made where we can find trains that can be taken off with the least possible inconvenience," said J. W. Switzer, passenger traffic manager.

Frontier Invaders Beaten By Greeks With Heavy Losses

BY JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

Salonica, Greece, Nov. 18 (AP)—Greek ground troops, supported by planes, were reported today to have inflicted heavy losses on hostile forces, officially described as "invaders," in full scale fighting along a mountainous front of seven miles or more near the Yugoslav frontier.

(The United States and British ambassadors—Lincoln MacVeagh and Sir Clifford Norton scheduled a conference in the Greek capital with Premier Constantinos Tsaldaris on the border fighting.)

A spokesman for the Greek Third Army said Greek Royal Airforce Spitfires were assisting ground troops in a "full scale military operation against the invading forces at Archangelos," west of ravaged Skra and immediately south of the Yugoslav border.

SAFE DRIVING RULES LISTED

Police Chief Cites Need For Caution As Winter Weather Approaches

With winter weather conditions forecast, including ice and snow, motorists yesterday were warned by Escanaba Police Chief M. F. Ettenhofer of the need for caution in driving.

The good automobile driver observes all the rules of common sense, no matter what the law may say, the police chief added. During the period of hazardous conditions, only the skillful driver knows what speed is safe and what is unsafe.

Thirty miles an hour should be the maximum on arterial streets and 25 miles an hour at night when pavements and weather are clear, he said.

"But there are times and places in the city," he added, "especially when streets are icy, when five miles an hour is too fast. Any driver is going too fast and is actually breaking the law when he cannot avoid an accident by stopping."

The good driver adheres to the following:

Keeps his car in good condition. Checks brakes, lights, tires, steering, gear frequently.

When pulling away from the curb makes sure the way is clear in both directions.

Comes to a slow, careful stop, avoiding applying the brakes suddenly.

Always backs his car slowly, making sure the road is clear behind.

Stays a safe distance behind the car ahead. A good rule: Stay at least one car length behind the car ahead for each 10 miles an hour of your car speed.

Do not pass on hills and curves where vision is obscured. Don't crowd the other car. Give him safe clearance in passing and when you drive back into line.

Signal the driver behind when you intend to make a turn or stop. At intersections give the other fellow his right of way.

Keep your windshield clean; don't drive when it is obscured by snow, ice, or mist.

Holy Land Raiders Kill Two Germans

Jerusalem, Nov. 18 (AP)—Two German Nationals were killed, and two British officers and two enlisted men were injured today in scattered disorders throughout the Holy Land, bringing to 21 the total deaths from violence in Palestine since Nov. 1.

Of these 13 were British army and police personnel and six were Arabs. Total injured were 31 British army and police men and three Arabs.

Rudolf Moller, who was still under restriction as an enemy national, and Max Mitchell, recently released from restriction, were slain from ambush by four khaki-clad assailants while traveling by horse cart between Walheim internment camp and Haifa. Two women accompanying the Germans were not injured. Haifa police said the four assailants escaped.

Dutch Empire Pact Brings On Violence

Batavia, Java, Nov. 18 (AP)—Dutch and Indonesian police worked side by side tonight in a probe of violence which broke out at nearby Buitenzorg yesterday after the signing in Batavia of a proposed agreement establishing a "United States of Indonesia" and redefining the entire Dutch empire system.

The agreement, if approved by the Dutch and Indonesian parliaments, will end 350 years of colonial rule over the Dutch East Indies, with their fabulous treasure of oil, rubber and tin.

A Hague dispatch said that "fierce opposition" was expected in the Dutch parliament to the measure, but that it was almost certain to be approved. Parliamentary debate may get underway late next week, the dispatch said.

Ban Goes Off Today On Whipping Cream

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced today it will permit the sale of whipping cream, effective Wednesday.

It is terminating a wartime order prohibiting sale of cream and cream products with a butterfat content of more than 19 percent, and designed to divert as much cream as possible into production of butter.

Escanaba Elks Hold Memorial On Dec. 1

Memorial services for departed members, a traditional ceremony in the Elks lodge, will be conducted Sunday afternoon, Dec. 1, by Escanaba Lodge 154, B. O. P. Elks.

The Elks memorial oration will be delivered by Fr. Matt Laviolette. Music on the program will include numbers by the Orpheus Choral club, with R. P. Bowers directing, and the high school string ensemble, with Frank Karas directing.

RHODES' SCHOLARS

Rhodes scholarships to the University of Oxford, England, were won by 1126 students in 211 colleges of the United States from the first award in 1904 until the wartime suspension in 1939. Scholarship awards were to be resumed in the fall of 1946.

DELTA SCHOOLS RECEIVE FUNDS

$43,316 Primary Money Goes To Districts In This County

Township and city school districts in Delta county have received a total of $43,316.30 in the final payment of primary interest money for the year, according to information from the office of the county treasurer where the disbursement is made.

The payment is made at the rate of $4.45 per census child of school age, and is based on a total of 9,734 children in the county. The amount of the payments to the school districts was as follows:

Hospital Gave Them Girl Baby; Parents Claim It Was A Boy

Detroit, Nov. 18 (AP)—A police check of footprint records today failed to settle the claim of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Snell that a hospital mixup gave them a girl baby instead of the newly born son they thought was theirs.

Mrs. Snell, 29, said doctors and nurses told her that the child born to her November 9 was a boy, but when she arrived home Friday found the baby was a girl. It is the couple's first child. Hospital authorities insist there has been no mistake, emphasizing no other baby is involved.

Jack Harvill, deputy chief of detectives, said hospital prints taken of Mrs. Snell's baby shortly after birth were of too poor quality to be compared with police department prints of the girl taken today.

Father Kills Two Children And Self; Wife May Recover

Los Angeles, Nov. 16 (AP)—Mrs. Betty Ellerby, shot in the head Thursday night in a domestic tragedy in which her husband, Richard, 33, former University of Michigan track star, and their two children died, today was given a "better than an even chance to recover."

Mrs. Ellerby is in Huntington hospital. Detective C. H. Burlingame of Pasadena said the case has been closed as a double murder and suicide.

Earlier detectives said Ellerby shot his wife, the children, Richard Jr., 4, and Caroline, 3, and himself following a quarrel over financial difficulties.

The family came to Pasadena last June from their former home in Birmingham, Mich.

Student Pilot, 23, Is Believed Lost In Lake St. Clair

Detroit, Nov. 18 (AP)—A 23-year-old student pilot today was feared lost in Lake St. Clair following discovery of a twisted airplane wheel in the Detroit River similar to the kind on the youth's training ship.

Missing is Thomas Allen, of Lincoln Park, who left City airport at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Airport spokesmen said Allen had only a few hours of solo instruction.

SOVIETS STICK TO VETO IN U. N.

Attempts To Discard Or Change System Are Denounced By Reds

BY ALEX H. SINGLETON
New York, Nov. 18 (AP)—Russian Foreign Minister Molotov rejected tonight all moves to strip the big nations of their veto powers in the United Nations security council, but agreed to talk over the question of voluntary modification of that right.

Only a few hours after making the tentative concession, Russia laid down before the United Nations general assembly its categorical opposition to revising the veto formula. Earlier, Russia characterized criticism of that formula as "artificial agitation."

Here at a huddle of the Big Five diplomatic chiefs—the first they have held on the veto issue since San Francisco—Molotov made it clear that he was reserving the right to reject all suggestions for changing the system.

Then, at Lake Success, where the United Nations are in assembly, Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko argued that "weakening of the charter either through its revision or through other means would be harmful and even fatal for the activities of the organization."

Over his objection, a French proposal for postponement of discussion of the veto question for a few days—until the foreign ministers have an opportunity to talk it over—was adopted by a vote of 38 to six, with five nations declining to cast a ballot.

Strike At Lincoln Plant Ends Quickly

Detroit, Nov. 18 (AP)—A strike which led to a halt of the car assembly line in the Ford Motor company's Lincoln plant was settled today a few hours after it began.

The firing of three men was followed by a walkout of 360 trim line workers, ultimately causing a total idleness of 1,100 men.

Negotiation resulted in an agreement to send the firings issue to the impartial umpire directly without recourse to customary grievance procedure.

A company spokesman said it was the first occasion of the postwar period in which a strike had stopped Lincoln's car production.

Former Resident Is Plane Crash Victim

Miss Mary LaBranche, 60, of Edmonton, Alberta, a former resident of Escanaba, was one of the passengers aboard a plane which crashed near Burbank, Calif., last Wednesday, killing passengers and crew, relatives were informed yesterday.

Miss LaBranche left Escanaba about 33 years ago and has made her home in Edmonton. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George LaBranche of Escanaba. The body has been removed to Edmonton, where funeral services will be held.

Relatives here are two aunts, Mrs. C. LaBranche of 1611 South Second avenue, and Mrs. Adelle LaBranche of 408 South Eighth street.

With The Deer Hunters

Among successful hunters early in the season was Bob Wellman of 621 South 19th street, who bagged a 200-pound nine-point buck Saturday.

Up at the August Schultz camp at Hells, Archie Rugg brought in an 11-point buck Saturday afternoon. Schultz himself bagged another 11-pointer the same day.

Maurice Pratt filled his deer license Sunday morning, shooting an 8-point buck up on the Buckeye line.

Three Down-State Lost Hunters Found

Munising—All hunters reported lost in the Munising area over the weekend have been found, the conservation department reported last night.

Walter Kulaski, 74, of Detroit, missing near Shingleton since 1 p. m. Sunday, was found at 10 a. m. Monday by Conservation Officer C. H. Carlson of Munising.

Two other hunters, Leon J. Brown, 29, and Eddy Glaser, 28, of Detroit, lost Saturday near Herman's Lake in Schoolcraft county, were located Sunday.

CAR PRODUCTION CAN'T PICK UP

Little Chance Seen For Increase Before Year's End

Detroit, Nov. 18 (AP)—Despite the optimism resulting from the end of most government controls, the automotive industry foresees no appreciable production increase before the year's end.

Sources in the business forecast a 1946 total of 3,200,000 passenger cars and trucks on the assumption that the free market will not be reflected in the industry for at least a few weeks.

That would include a November total of 360,000 cars and trucks and a December output of about 300,000—slimmed because of the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Production thus far in November has reached 202,703 vehicles but 11 of the 20 working days have passed. If the 360,000 mark is attained it will be approximately 37,000 below October, the record postwar month thus far, when there were 23 production days.

The trade paper Automotive News reported in its Nov. 18 issue that output thus far in 1946 totals 1,773,876 passenger cars compared to 4,644,102 at the same date in 1941, and forecast a 1946 total of 2,200,000.

Thus far this year General Motors has turned out 633,372 passenger cars, Chrysler 467,547 and Ford 389,710.

SAY OFFICIALS CHEATING WAA

Local Government Hit For Dishonesty In Surplus Resale

Washington (AP)—The War Assets Administration, striking angrily at what it called a "doubtful practice," announced it has uncovered cases in which state and local officials misused surplus purchase priorities for private profit.

The agency reported some prosecutions already under way by the justice department and promised more. It said investigation of such cases is being given priority. No names were given, but WAA said violations were "especially prevalent in certain southern and midwestern states." Questioned by reporters, officials declined to specify which states.

Some of the complaints have been found groundless, the agency added, and 32 cases still are under investigation. In two instances, indictments have been returned.

"We may well expect certain unscrupulous businessmen to prey on the surplus property program by hook or crook," WAA Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn said in a statement "but it is doubly despicable when local government officials who shoulder a public trust, will engage in similar dishonest practices."

He said several such cases have aroused "unwarranted criticism" of WAA itself, and reported "resentment" among officials charged with administering war surplus disposal.

WAA cited these cases: A county judge purchased nine trucks and six automobiles under an official priority and resold them to private individuals.

An automobile dealer in one town purchased surplus army trucks upon authorization of the mayor and resold them to the public at a profit.

One board of county commissioners permitted resale of surplus construction equipment to a private dealer. The county had purchased $72,544 worth of equipment but at the time of a WAA investigation had only $24,568 in its possession.

Garbage Pick-up In City To Continue All Winter

For the first time in its history, Escanaba is to have year-around garbage collection and $17,094 has been budgeted to cover the cost of this service for the 1946-47 fiscal year.

The budgeted figure is an estimate, however, and the cost may be considerably higher. The cost for garbage collection in the city, which did not include winter collection service, was $12,052 for the previous fiscal year.

Loren Jenkins, city engineer, said the garbage collection schedule will remain the same as present, and that it will continue through the winter.

There is the possibility that during periods of heavy snow storms the schedule cannot be maintained because all available equipment will be used for removing snow from the streets.

The same rules apply for the collection of garbage in winter as in summer, with this additional caution:

1. Garbage must be wrapped substantially in several layers of paper. It is recommended that the packages of garbage be tied so they will not break open in the can.

2. The garbage cans must be kept free of moisture and loose wet garbage, which would freeze and make it impossible for the collectors to empty the cans.
It will be doubly important to keep the garbage cans located where they will be easily accessible for emptying. By placing them on an elevated platform the bottoms of the cans will not rust out so quickly.

The city limits the capacity of the garbage cans to not more than 30 gallons. Larger cans, such as 50-gallon oil drums, are too heavy for the men to handle and will not be emptied.

Rubbish and ashes placed in containers will be collected by the city during the year, probably in separate trucks. Such collections reduce the amount of seasonal alley clean-up work in the spring.

Blind Child Bound To Bed; Pair Held

Iron Mountain—Elwood Walstrom, 36 and his wife, Blanche, 26, 400 West Hughitt, are in the county jail each under a $1,000 cash bond, pending a preliminary examination on a charge of cruelty against their four-year-old daughter, after their arrest Monday morning by city police.

Arrest of the couple followed investigation by Patrolman Schupp of a neighbor's complaint. The child, Lois Louise, blind since birth, was found by Schupp alone in the Walstrom apartment, crying and bound hand and foot to the crib in which she was lying. County authorities were notified and Mrs. Lillian Bandt, county nurse, took charge of the child.

Although the couple denied charges of cruelty, they admitted that they had been hunting in the Faithorn area and said the child was left in the care of Mrs. Walstrom's sister. The parents did not return home until yesterday afternoon.

Persistent cries of the child prompted a neighbor to report. Police said the child is now being cared for at the county infirmary until arrangements can be made to send her to an institution for the blind.

Fresh Sausage Can Be Preserved Best Without Salt Use

Chicago—Contrary to what you might think, sugar, pepper and sage do a better job of preserving frozen pork sausage than the same seasonings with salt added. That is the conclusion reached by tests at the Army's Quartermaster Food and Container Institute here.

After nine months of tests, it was found that the frozen sausage preserved with sugar, pepper and sage were more acceptable than the lot seasoned with salt plus the other three. The salt-added preservative was less satisfactory than no seasoning at all, the tests showed, while sugar, pepper and sage sausage had less deterioration than the non-seasoned lot.

Moral Disintegration

THE staggering extent of the morals breakdown in the United States is reflected in the sharp increase in juvenile delinquency and in the appalling failure of marriages. Undoubtedly the two social problems have a common bond.

In Wayne county during the month of September there were 3,075 marriages and 1,537 divorces. On this basis, half of the marriages in the metropolitan area of Detroit are ending on the rocks, leaving a wreckage of broken homes. The average throughout the state is four divorces for every 10 marriages and the national average is in excess of three out of 10.

In the face of this discouraging condition in the institution of marriage, is it any wonder that juvenile crime in 1946 jumped 21 per cent over 1945, itself a bad year for juvenile delinquency?

During the first nine months of 1946, youths under 21 accounted for half of all car thefts, 42 per cent of the burglaries, 23.8 per cent of the rapes and 28.4 per cent of the robberies.

The delinquency problem is one of the most serious confronting the nation today. In an effort to chart an effective plan to meet the problem, the justice department is conducting a three-day conference in Washington, with representatives of federal, state community and private organizations participating. It is the solemn hope of the nation that out of this conference may come a workable blueprint for a sound program to check the rise in juvenile crime.

If there is any one thing certain about the whole mess, it is that the improvement of youth's morals must be preceded by a strengthening of parental responsibility. It certainly cannot be accomplished by continuance of the present appalling rate of broken marriages.

Tough On Drinkers

JUDGE John D. Watts of the Detroit traffic court has issued an ultimatum that those who drink and drive will lose their operators' license. Stiffening of the court's policy followed a wave of traffic accidents in Detroit.

Judge Watts has set an example that might well be followed in traffic and justice courts throughout the state. In the past, the Detroit traffic court has made a distinction between the drunk driver and the driver charged with some other offense who, incidentally, also had been drinking.

Now is the time to remind motorists of the dangers that lurk in the mixing of gasoline with alcohol. The holiday season is approaching, along with the threat of heavier drinking and merry-making. It's not fun, however, when some school child or other pedestrian is hit and killed by an automobile, driven by a driver with "a few drinks under his belt."

Can We Get Too Big?

SOME well-intentioned citizen recently offered a new thought on the subject of industrial expansion in Escanaba.

This well-meaning person raised the question as to whether Escanaba has gone far enough in attracting new industries. He is wondering whether in our efforts to create more employment locally we shall be saddling Escanaba with boom-town problems, such as Iron Mountain had when Ford located there.

There is something in what he has to say, of course, but after all it is altogether possible to stimulate Escanaba's growth and at the same time keep it a good community in which to live. This requires planning. We cannot go blindly ahead thinking only of getting new industries. At the same time, we must plan for an orderly growth in other directions.

For instance, we must plan for parks, playgrounds and other recreational facilities to meet the needs of a larger population. We must not use up space, ideal for such facilities, in a pell-mell rush to locate new factories, stores and homes. There is ample space for all purposes, but now is the time to start planning for its wise use. Better to think now than to be sorry later.

If we are to accommodate the people who work in Escanaba's old and new factories, warehouses, offices and stores, we must plan for more adequate housing. Comfortable, well-built homes for all are the best guarantee that we shall have a community of happy, contented people.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce industrial committee, with the cooperation of the Escanaba city council, has been doing an outstanding job the past three years in bringing in new industries. Is there anything that other C. of C. committees should do to help assure Escanaba of an orderly development on all fronts?

Russia Draws No Line

"TWO-THIRDS of the world's population is non-Caucasian," says the Rev.

Timothy O'Hara, in a new book, 'Portrait of a Pilgrim,' a plea for racial understanding.

"Outnumbered two to one in the world, the white man ought not—from prudential motives, if no other—to court the kind of catastrophe that would pit the non-white world against us," says this clergyman student of the race problem.

"In such a conflict, the most favorable attitude we could expect from Russia would be one of neutrality. More likely, she would be opposed to white supremacy—her own population being made up of more than one hundred and fifty racial and national groups.

"If Russia were to be united the pigmented peoples, that would leave part of the little peninsula of Asia that is called Europe, plus the island of Australia, plus this continent north of the Rio Grande pitted against the rest of the world in a ratio of nearly four to one against us. Any policy that deliberately fosters that eventuality is criminally suicidal.

"Our domestic racial practices are just such a policy. Although America has been called the land of opportunity, that opportunity is for whites only," continues the writer. "Discrimination, exploitation, disfranchisement, segregation and contempt with which we mistreat our minorities, are not the policies calculated to win friends and influence people in other parts of the globe. If we mean to have peace and prosperity and the good will of the world, we have got to get peace and decency as the basis for prosperity here at home also."

In this little book Mr. O'Hara has put his finger on one of the sorest spots in our American body politic. Racial prejudices are slowly dying, but they are still strong enough to be fanned into flame by the bitter mouthings of the Bilbos, the Coughlins and the Gerald Smiths. We still have a long way to go before we can stand up, with President Truman, and affirm that mankind is really a unity, in spite of its apparent diversity.

Reducing Subsidies

REPUBLICANS looking around for ways and means of sharply reducing government expenditures can be expected to take a sizable whack out of federal subsidies. It is a field that offers plenty of opportunity for retrenchment.

The new deal shoveled out a total of nearly 14 billion dollars in subsidies during the depression and war years, more than half of which went into farm subsidies. At first the farm subsidies were designed to prop depressed prices but later when farm prices jumped sharply, the subsidies were continued under the theory that they were anti-inflationary.

During the war years subsidies were used generously to stimulate production of materials needed for war goods, such as synthetic rubber, copper, lead, etc. Some but not all of the war subsidies have already been removed.

Bounty payments for this, that and the other thing, constituting as they have an integral part of the federal "controlled economy," can well be abandoned now that we are committed to a return to the traditional American way of life and the normal law of supply and demand.

HANLEY AND MCCAULEY STAY

(Milwaukee Journal)

The re-election of Sheriff George M. Hanley and Dist. Atty. William J. McCauley, Democrats, in the face of a general Republican victory, is plain indication that the people of Milwaukee county meant to reward two men with excellent records of public service.

The Republican candidates were former holders of the two offices and were not without merit in the respective fields. There would have been no danger in giving them the jobs, but evidently the people did not see that there would be any advantage, either. The decision that was made should be an incentive to men who want to do the right thing in office.

Milwaukee county, which has often shown keen discrimination in such matters, showed it again Tuesday in retaining its excellent sheriff and its competent district attorney. Both men now have a challenge to do even better in the future.

WORDS TO WATCH

(Scrapbook Item)

Overheard on a radio forum broadcast: "...insisting that we should give up our BAY-seez in the Pacific."

There is a surprising amount of confusion in high places about the pronunciation of certain words ending in -eez. I have noticed that a number of well-educated speakers, including some radio commentators, have the erroneous idea that the -es of all words should have the "eez" pronunciation, as "bay-seez" for bases, "premi-seez" for premises, "prejud-seez" for prejudices, etc.

The erroneous "eez" comes about thus: In English there are many words of Latin or Greek-Latin origin which end in -is, as: analysis, antithesis, basis, crisis, emphasis, hypothesis, parenthesis. The plurals of such words are formed by changing -is to -es, thus: analyses, antitheses, bases, crises, emphases, hypotheses, parentheses.

Now note carefully: the "eez" pronunciation in such plurals is correct, as, analy-seez, antithesez, bay-seez, cri-seez, etc.

But—and this is very important—the "bases" that is correctly pronounced "bay-seez" is not the plural of "base"—it is the plural of "basis." Therefore, to speak of "military bay-seez" is nonsense; and I hope the public doesn't pick up the error

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—The Republican sweep in the election this year has been compared with what happened in 1930, when the Democrats started their come-back. But what happened this time is of so much greater magnitude that it compares with 1930 as a tidal wave does to a thunderstorm.

The majority of the total vote rolled up by the Republicans was so great that, for comparison, one must go to the majorities which President Roosevelt piled up in the heyday of his popularity.

Statistician Louis H. Bean, an expert on election trends, estimates that the Republicans got 57 per cent of the total vote cast on Nov. 5. This, of course, is based on unofficial figures. It compares with 46 per cent cast for the Democrats in 1930. At the peak of his vote-getting ability—in 1936—Franklin Roosevelt received approximately 58.5 per cent of all the votes cast.

Poll-taker Elmo Roper is more conservative in his estimated. He puts the percentage of the Republican vote on Nov. 5 at 54.8 per cent. But Roper, too, points out that this is reminiscent of the Roosevelt majorities.

—VANDENBERG IN LIMELIGHT—

In 1930, the Democrats won 214 seats in the House, which left the Republicans with a majority of a few seats. But before the new Congress could meet, 13 months later—that was before the lame-duck congress had been abolished by constitutional amendment—enough Republicans had died and been replaced by Democrats to give the latter a narrow working majority. It was then that they organized the House and named John Nance Garner as speaker.

As shown in Roper's figures, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan came out with by far the largest majority of any of the Republicans prominently mentioned as presidential candidates. He got 67.5 per cent of the vote, which is better than two to one. While his opponent was by no means a strong candidate, Michigan is an industrial state in which the CIO-PAC has been extremely active. Moreover, Vandenberg never once went into the state to campaign.

Next in line, but considerably under Vandenberg, was Gov. Edward Thye of Minnesota, who was running for the Senate with the backing of Presidential Candidate Harold Stassen. Thye, presumably reflecting Stassen's vote-getting ability in the state, polled 61.4 per cent of the vote.

Third was Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, who got 58 per cent of the vote in his race for the senate. Former Gov. John W. Bricker, in his senate race in Ohio, polled 57.2 per cent, which is only a little more than the national percentage.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, running for re-election, was just under Bricker in his showing, with 56.9 per cent of the vote cast. Another prominent presidential candidate, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, was not up for re-election this time, and Gov. Earl Warren of California, having been nominated by both parties, had no contest.

Returns in certain congressional districts show even more clearly the impressive size of the Republican snowball. Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio was re-elected in the 7th district by approximately 68 per cent of the vote cast, according to estimates made by his office here. That will certainly do no harm in Brown's campaign to become majority leader of the new Republican House.

—G. O. P. STRENGTH—

Only at the high-tide mark of Democratic popularity in 1936 did the 7th Ohio District go Democratic, and then only by a majority of 1,000 votes—less than 51 per cent. Brown defeated the Democrat two years later, and he has been piling up larger and larger majorities ever since.

More revealing is the 6th district in Ohio, in the southern part of the state. This is considered normally a Democratic district, although it went Republican in 1926 and 1928. The Democrats carried it by 400 votes in 1930, and continued to hold it by small majorities until 1942. In that year, it was captured by the Republican who was re-elected this month, Rep. Edward O. McCowen. His majority increased in 1944 to about 3,000 votes. This year, it was 6,000 according to his office.

While the Republicans are rejoicing over their extraordinary victory, congressional leaders here in Washington know that it poses a problem for them. The GOP majority in the House will be top-heavy with newcomers having little or no knowledge about the machinery of Congress. Bossing this majority will be no easy task for the new leadership.

Once the politicians get wound up they do a lot of running down.

because a few misinformed speakers have used it on the air.

The "bases" that is the plural of "base" is correctly pronounced: BAY-seez, to rhyme with cases, faces, spaces. If a word ends in -ee or -ce, its plural -es or -ces should not be pronounced "seez." Never say "seez" at the end of such words as: premises, bases (plural of "base"), armistices, precipices, prejudices, crevices, etc.

THE NEW BODY —The other day an Escanaba father of a teenage boy expressed concern over the future of his son who, he believes, will grow up to become a glibble chap taken in by all sorts of fads and fancies.

The boy had sold his bicycle, the father explained, so that he might have enough money to send away for a mail-order course. We could see nothing particularly wrong in this, since development of the mind, even by correspondence, is a commendable thing.

"Yes," said the father, sadly, "but it isn't to develop his mind. He wants to have a body like Charles Atlas and is taking a course in Dynamic Tension."

HE-MAN VITALITY —The father continued his story, explaining that the boy who once received healthful exercise in the open air riding his bicycle now goes into his room, closes the door, and there performs the mysteries of some, rippling coat of muscle over your body. This achievement, incidentally, will come (according to the advertisements the father found in a magazine) "in only 15 minutes a day."

The father placed the magazine in front of us. "Look at this," he said, pointing to an advertisement dominated by a picture of Mr. Atlas smiling proudly and rippling his "rippling coat of muscle."

Modestly, as dust under his pictured feet, was Mr. Atlas' boast that he holds the title of "The World's Most Perfectly Developed Man."

TO WIN FRIENDS —The father of our problem boy perhaps did not realize it, but his son's addiction to muscle-building as outlined by Mr. Atlas is a very natural attribute of adolescents—no matter the age of the boy or man. We have known men pushing 40 and over who have suddenly awakened to realization that they are members of clan described by Atlas as "scrawny, skinny-cheeked weaklings."

The decision to have a whirl at Dynamic Tension, even though it meant selling a prized bike, comes usually as the result of efforts to impress someone with the fact that they are "he-men"—also as described by Atlas. What teen-age boy, for instance, could resist the following encouragement from the exponent of the body beautiful:

"You'll no longer have to stand back and let other fellows walk off with the prettiest girls, step into the best jobs, grab the spotlight at every party. You can have the kind of handsome, healthy body and red-blooded he-man vitality that spells success—you just can't help attracting admiring looks wherever you go—"

NARY A RIPLE —To comfort the man who believed his son was becoming soft in the head over hardening his muscles, we told him of an experience of another father in another family. This father himself had a physique resembling a clothes pole, in fact he was so attenuated it appeared his mother might have been frightened by a ghost. His friends said he was so feathery he would lead in his shoes to keep from being blown away.

This man had a son built on the same lines. The boy was in high school at the time and decided, after reading a Charles Atlas advertisement, that he "would trade in your old body for one packed with he-man vitality, and ripling with solid muscle." Incidentally, Mr. Atlas does not explain how solid muscle can ripple.

After the boy had tensioned himself dynamically for several weeks, and the only result seemed to be an enlargement of his Adam's apple, the father kindly and compassionately pointed out that there are all types of bodies. His was the kind that would create despair when viewed on a beach, but was otherwise highly functional and healthy. The boy wanted to know if there wasn't something that could be done to cover up his bones.

"Unfortunately, I'm afraid not," said his father. "The only suggestion would be to have had your mother meet Charles Atlas before I came along—and you're too late for that."

IT'S MAGNIFICENT —To hear Mr. Atlas tell it, nothing is impossible. He throws out the window the old belief that you can't make a silk purse of a sow's ear and tells young hopefuls: "Let me give you a battering-ram punch, develop your shoulders and back into a tough wall of solid muscle (there's that solid muscle again), build you a tough, supple belt of punch-proof stomach muscles, re-make your legs into young tree trunks of strength—"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Most amusing sight on the Merry-Go-Round scene today is the frantic scramble of the Socialists, the Lobbyists, and the local power politicians to get religion in a hurry. In this case, religion is better known as the GOP. After fourteen years of Democratic rule, the Republicans were so far down the social list they almost developed an inferiority complex. But now they are staging a grand comeback. The invitations to once-scorned Republican senators and congressmen have doubled and tripled, as hostesses bid for the newly-won prestige of GOP solons.

Scores of Washingtonians are now racking their brains to figure out whom they know who knows someone who knows someone high in Republican ranks.

Always in step with the times is popular Presidential Court Jester George Allen, who never hesitates to tell a joke on himself. If you walk into Allen's private office first thing you will see is an autographed picture of his good friend, Harry Truman. Second thing is a newly hung autographed photo of Senator Arthur Vandenberg. A glance at the wall shows, however, that although the picture was recently hung, it was not recently autographed. It says, "For my dear friend, George E. Allen. With best wishes, A. H. Vandenberg." The date is June 9, 1935.

Asked whether he hung the photo on the day after election, the ever-lovable court-jester replied:

"Oh, no. I didn't wait that long. I hung it up at quarter past eight on election night. Sure was dusty, but I had it all polished up."

—NEW WITCH-HUNT—

About two weeks before elections, Mississippi's rootin' tootin' Congressman John Rankin, Democrat, and New Jersey's witch-hunting J. Parnell Thomas, Republican, put their heads together and agreed that, with a Republican election certain, now was the time to sweep out of the government all the Liberals whom Rankin and Thomas do not like.

To this end, it was agreed that New Jersey's Thomas was to be chairman of the Un-American Affairs Committee, while Rankin was to continue as the driving force. Thomas was to carry the ball just enough to retain some semblance of being chairman, but most of the work was to be done by the so-called "Gentlemen" from Mississippi.

The agreement was no sooner reached than Robert Stripling, former chief investigator under Martin Dies, and three times deferred from the draft, was re-employed. Stripling was given the promise that he would become chief investigator under the Republican Congress beginning in January.

Since his return, Stripling has been slipping into the old house office building by the southeast entrance, wearing dark glasses to conceal his identity. In addition, a sun-tan picked up in the army has helped disguise him. For three weeks he has been busy going over the files of the old Dies committee, summing up a master list of those in the Federal Service whom the Rankin committee will smear at the first opportunity.

Prediction: Congress is in for more witch-hunting than since the days when Ex-Congressman Ham Fish of New York followed a hot lead to an old trunk in a Baltimore warehouse, supposed to be full of Soviet documents. When he lifted the lid, he found only cabbages.

REPUBLICAN CLOSED-DOOR CAUCUS

There was only one major dispute when the House Republican Steering Committee held its closed-door caucus on legislative policies the other day. This was over whether the Republicans should accept all of the Reorganization Act, adopted at the last Congress and providing for consolidation of Congressional committees.

Elder Statesman Jim Wadsworth of New York finally settled the dispute in his level-headed way, with few feelings fractured.

Rep. Sterling Cole of New York, high-ranking member of the Naval Affairs Committee, started the debate by warmly opposing the merger of the Naval Affairs and Military Affairs Committees into one 33-man committee on armed forces, as provided by the act.

Cole argued that the consolidation would be untimely unless the army and navy themselves were merged. He pointed out that most members of the military committee favored army-navy unification, while most naval committee members opposed it; therefore throwing these two battling factions into a single committee would merely cause disharmony.

"Until the merger question is settled, these two committees should remain independent," Cole contended.

Rep. Leslie Arends of Illinois, a member of the military committee plus several others, echoed the same view. But Wadsworth quickly harpooned their objections.

"National defense is an over-all matter and should be handled as such by a single committee," said the big New York Cattle Farmer and Ex-Senator. Our experience with overlapping defense legislation during the last war proved this conclusively, Wadsworth continued. It was absurd, he added, for the army and navy to continue to bring their closely related problems before separate committees.

Upshot was that the GOP leaders went on record to accept the Reorganization Act in toto, with the understanding that changes might be made later if necessary.

DELTA LEADS SPUD RAISERS

County Advances From Sixth To First Place In U. P.

Washington, D. C. (WNS)—Delta farmers moved from sixth to first place in average potato production among all Upper Peninsula counties during the war years, it was learned today.

According to 1945 Census of Agriculture tabulations, Delta farmers increased their yield from 79 bushels per acre in 1940 to 175 bushels in 1945.

The 79 bushel per acre yield in 1940 was identical with the yield per acre in Menominee County and was topped by the per acre yield in Schoolcraft, Marquette, Iron, Houghton and Alger.

The 1945 average yield per acre in Delta County was greater than the average yield in any other U. P. county. Marquette's average of 171 bushels per acre was nearest to the Delta average yield.

The war years saw Delta farmers decrease their total acreage of potatoes from 2,328 in 1940 to 2,045 in 1945, but increase their harvest from 185,780 bushels in 1940 to 356,513 bushels in 1945.

The top acreage planted in potatoes in the U. P. in 1940 was the 3,767 acres planted in Menominee County. Houghton farmers, however, with 2,846 acres planted, dug 301,232 bushels, to lead all U. P. counties. Both Houghton and Menominee planted more acreage than Delta in 1940 and both harvested more.

Houghton farmers planted 4,993 acres in 1945 for a yield of 746,098 bushels, to lead all U. P. counties. Houghton's average yield, however, was only 149 bushels per acre, 26 under the Delta average. Marquette's 2,311 acres and 395 bushel harvest and Menominee's 2,918 acreage and 365,967 bushels were greater than Delta's. Delta was ahead of all other U. P. counties in 1945. The Menominee average yield was 125 bushels per acre.

All counties except Ontonagon, Keweenaw, and Gogebic enjoyed an average yield in 1945 or more than 100 bushels per acre.

Blue Blood Rides Trail Back From Political Exile

By S. BURTON HEATH

New York—(NEA).—The same pendulum which returned the Republicans from a 16-year exile has restored blue blood to political respectability.

Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia is going to have to share the social spotlight in big time politics, for the next two years or more, with some newer names that are Social Register and American History, both capitalized.

In Massachusetts, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., became the third Republican of modern times to carry heavily Democratic, strongly Irish Boston. He whipped the Celtic Senator David I. Walsh by 25,000 votes in a city where blue blood ordinarily is the political equal of two strikes and a fixed umpire.

In Connecticut, the Senator's brother, John Davis Lodge, new in politics, whipped Col. Henry Mucci, Ranger hero who freed the Bataan March survivors from Cabanatuan prison camp in the Philippines. Fairfield County has a lot of Italian voters, and the Democrats counted upon Italian-descended Col. Mucci to regain them a Congressional seat. But Lodge talked to the Italians in their own tongue, which Mucci couldn't. He had his wife, the socially-prominent Francesca Braggiotti before her marriage, sing to them in Italian about the freeing of Trieste from the Austrians. And he walked away with the election.

From Beacon Hill, figuratively, came Robert F. Bradford, descendant of Massachusetts' second colonial governor, to whip Irish Governor Tobin in the state and hold him to a mere 10,000 vote margin in Irish Boston.

Up in Hamilton Fish's old New York Congressional district, Mrs. George B. St. George sauntered out through the guarded fence that protects ritzy Tuxedo Park from the idly curious, and celebrated her first venture in office-seeking by winning a seat in Congress for herself.

And State Senator Frederic Rene Couderc, Jr., in the 17th New York Congressional District, did a double chore by first beating another Social Registerite, Joseph Clark Baldwin, III, in the primaries, and then whipping both his Democratic opponent and Baldwin handily in the election.

There may be other winners in this year's voting who can be found either in the Social Register or in the genealogies of historic American families, but these—all Republicans except Senator Byrd—qualify in both classifications.

The first Lodges came to Boston in 1791, when Giles Lodge, grandfather of the elder Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, fled a black uprising in Santo Domingo.

The Senator's mother, Anna Cabot, was a daughter of those Cabots who reputedly are spoken to only by Lowells, and themselves speak only to God. Her mother's father, John Welland Blake, descended from a cousin of William Blake, who came to Massachusetts in 1630 and is known as "the Great Admiral of the Commonwealth."

Bradford's father, dean of Harvard Medical School and a famous orthopedic surgeon, didn't rest on Mayflower laurels any more than the Lodges have relied upon their slightly later-arrived antecedents. Nor has Bradford.

Though a staunch Republican, he entered politics as secretary to Democratic Governor Joseph B. Ely; then served for six years as Republican district attorney in aristocratic suburban Middlesex County; then, though Democrat Tobin won the governorship in 1944, Bradford broke through to the lieutenant-governorship and won promotion this year.

Mrs. St. George is a second cousin of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Her mother was a sister of Mrs. Sarah (Delano) Roosevelt, Franklin's mother. Her husband is a grandson of the wealthy and aristocratic banker, George F. Baker.

Fourth Generation

It is only the fourth generation since the Coudercs came here from France—only the third successive generation of outstanding Lodge brothers: Henry (left), elected to Senate from Massachusetts, and John, who won Congressional seat in Connecticut, are sons of Boston's famed Henry Cabot Lodge.

Blue stockings: Massachusetts governor-elect Robert F. Bradford (right) is descendant of that state's second colonial governor; Mrs. George B. St. George, elected to Congress, is member of socially-elite Tuxedo Park, N. Y., set.

international lawyers. But aside from his paternal family's French status before migration, Couderc has other qualifications.

His mother was Alice Wilmerding, and rated in New York society. His maternal grandfather, Benjamin Franklin Tracy, was Secretary of the Navy under President Harrison. His second and current wife is Paula Murray, socially prominent in New York. North Shore Long Island, and Aiken (N. C.) circles.

As for Harry Flood Byrd, who has what he wants in Virginia without question, the customary description ordinarily suffices. He is one of the Byrds of Virginia.

The log-cabin, rags-to-riches, up-from-city-streets formulae still are good enough in politics. But they have lost the exclusive touch that, for some years, they could boast. Once more it seems possible to move into higher political circles without first hiding away the Social Register, the genealogies and the clippings from society columns.

PIN-WORMS GO! New Treatment Gets Real Results

People don't like to talk about Pin-Worm infection. Sometimes they are too embarrassed to mention the tormenting rectal itching. And in many cases they have not known of any effective way to deal with this pest that lives inside the human body.

Today, thanks to a special, medically recognized drug (gentian violet), a highly effective treatment has been made possible. This drug is the vital ingredient in P-W, the Pin-Worm tablet developed in the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son.

The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms. So if you suspect Pin-Worms in your child or yourself, ask your druggist for a package of JAYNE'S P-W right away, and follow the directions. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

It's easy to remember: P-W for Pin-Worms!

ALGER-DELTA REA ASKS LOAN

Electric Co-op Wants $150,000 For Expansion Program

Washington, D. C. (WNS)—The Alger-Delta Co-op Electric Association has pending an application for a loan totaling $150,000, REA officials told the Daily Press today.

This pending loan application from the Alger-Delta Co-op, is part of a total of $250,000,000 in pending applications to the Rural Electrification Administration. Funds still available to REA to meet these applications amount to $140,000,000.

Despite the fact that the amount of applications pending exceeds available money, little concern over the fate of all loan requests pending is held in rural electrification circles in Washington. Worst that could happen, it is believed, is that some of the applications now pending may have to go over until the new fiscal year before they can be approved and money allocated.

The change from democratic to republican control of Congress is not expected to effect rural electrification programs. Representative Clifford Hope of Kansas, leader of the republican farm bloc, stated recently in Washington after a meeting of the House GOP steering committee, that the new majority farm program would include "continuation and expansion of rural electrification."

Alger-Delta Co-op's loan application pending for $150,000 is to construct 97 miles of electrification to serve 522 consumers.

The Ontario County Rural Electric Association and the Cloverland Electric co-op, both serving the Upper Peninsula have no loan applications pending.

Ludington Motors Is Robbed Of $38

The Ludington Motors building at 1636 Ludington was entered some time after midnight Saturday by a thief or thieves who stole a total of about $38 from two cash registers in the show room, it was reported to Escanaba police Sunday morning.

Entry was made by breaking a window in the building in an alley on the north side. It is the latest in a sporadic series of robberies which have occurred in the past couple weeks.

Library Adventure

By Arnold Mulder

IN HER RECENT little book, "A Tale of Possum Poke," Stellanova Osborn describes a fire that destroyed the literary workshop of former Governor Chase S. Osborn, in Georgia. While she and the former governor and most of the people living on the place were standing watching the flames lick up the building, she was thinking of the "only two manuscripts" of a book that was about ready for the printer. She and Mr. Osborn had been working on that book for months. In a few minutes' time all that labor was destroyed before her eyes.

That is a hazard nearly every author faces with every book he writes. The modern writer, who can employ a secretary and have one or more carbon copies made as he goes along, is not so completely at the mercy of such an "act of God" as was the author of an older day. Before the advent of the typewriter, when authors worked with pen or pencil, they couldn't do much to protect themselves against such hazards. They were always subject to the danger of having a whole year's work, or even two years' work, destroyed in a single moment.

The story is told of Sinclair Lewis, when he was still a young author, taking a newly-completed manuscript with him on a trip, and losing the suitcase in which he was carrying it. It may be a mere publicity agent's yarn—I have never been able to get proof of the story; if true it was almost a major tragedy for the young writer.

The classic example of the hazards to which manuscripts are subject before the printer gets to work on them is that of Carlyle's best two-volume history, "The French Revolution." Carlyle had been working like a slave to get the books ready for publication. That was of course before the days of the typewriter; nor had the lone wolf that was Carlyle learned to work with secretaries. He had been laboring by himself day after day, month after month, even year after year.

At last the book was finished, or at least the rough draft had been completed. There were still many links to be put upon the book, but Carlyle had been doing all his patient research work and had written the sequence of the dramatic story chapter by chapter, part by part.

His friend John Stuart Mill had become interested in the project and was eager to read the manuscript. Carlyle, on his part was rather glad to have Mill read the book before it was sent to the printers; the English economist might have valuable suggestions to make that would improve the manuscript. So Mill tucked the manuscript under his arm and strolled down to his own quarters.

Carlyle was a slovenly person, and his manuscript were far from being models of neatness. They looked rather like a collection of waste paper on which the cat had slept, so blotched and interlined that anyone might have been excused for mistaking them for waste paper.

And that turned out to be their fate. Mill's housemaid needed some paper to build a fire in her master's study. The manuscript was lying about rather carelessly and untidy. She thought it was worthless stuff and so she made use of it in starting the fire.

How Mill faced Carlyle we are not told. How Carlyle felt we can easily imagine.

FLUORINE SAID TO STOP DECAY

Students Are Tested By Health Doctors This Week

Looking to the country's water supply as a public health weapon, the University of Michigan and the National Institute of Public Health have sent representatives to Escanaba to determine the extent of dental decay prevented by the presence of fluorine in the city's water supply.

Dr. Philip Jay, director of dental caries, University of Michigan, and Dr. F. A. Arnold, Washington, D. C. are able to estimate the percentage of improvement in decay by careful analysis of saliva specimens taken from grade and junior high school students. No immediate change in dental conditions is expected but within several years when those tested this year have been drinking water containing fluorine for the prescribed length of time and after another survey is conducted, concrete evidence of improvement is expected.

According to the most recent report, the amount of fluorine in the local water supply amounts to from six-tenths to eight-tenths of one part per million. It takes ten thousand parts per million to make one percent which makes the actual fluorine deposit minutely small. There is danger in the event of too much fluorine as it may result in the mottling and discoloration of teeth.

Dental authorities have advanced two theories to explain the decay prevention effect of fluorine. One is that tooth decay is a deficiency disease resulting mostly from a lack of fluorine in the diet. The other is that fluorine kills the bacteria which many persons believe causes tooth decay.

To relieve Shortages in things you need...

THE PICTURE IN STEEL 1939 vs. THIRD QUARTER 1946

PRODUCTION UP 55%

WEEKLY WAGES UP 63%

STEEL PRICES UP 18% OR LESS THAN HALF A CENT PER POUND

STEEL MILLS are working day and night. Steel production is setting peace-time records. This is good news for you.

In one way or another steel helps make almost everything you use—cars, washing machines, refrigerators and countless other things.

By pushing its production to record-breaking volume, the steel industry is helping hundreds of other industries get going.

However, the mills are not yet able to supply the full demand for steel. This is largely due to the loss of 12,000,000 tons of steel production this year from strikes in steel, coal and other industries.

The mills are trying hard to make up the lost output. If the present production pace can be continued, there should be enough steel for normal needs before many months are past.

In Hollywood

BY ESKINE JOHNSON

NEA Staff Correspondent

Hollywood—The other day a press agent of our acquaintance imparted the intelligence that he was "in touch" with Mr. R. L. Farnsworth, president of the United States Rocket Society, Inc. Now we learned long ago that press agents are dangerous people. Darkly, in their devious, inventive minds, they are constantly hatching schemes to shock us out of the even tenor of existence.

They have created feuds and riots, turned wild animals loose in the streets, and had their clients clapped in the pokies for the sake of headlines. And one of them deftly misqu岸d a colleague of ours into falling fully clothed into a 30,000-gallon tank of water on a movie set—"to give the guy something to write about."

Hence, the suggestion that a practitioner of this diabolical craft was nosing around in the rarefied air of rocketry gave us a bit of a turn.

"What's the idea?" we demanded, suspiciously.

Moon Traffic Ahead

"Well—" the hesitated, blushing like a schoolgirl, "this may sound a little silly, but you know it won't be long till people are traveling to the moon. As a matter of fact, I happen to have some literature on the subject right here."

"The moon!" we snorted. "What do you want to go to the moon for? What's the matter with Southern California?"

"Look," he said, and shoved a pamphlet under our nose. "The whole thing is right here. The rocket has arrived! A trip to the moon is scientifically practicable right now. All they need is the money to build the ship."

"How much?"

"Oh," he said airily, "a matter of ten million bucks or so. Howard Hughes spent more than that on the Hercules."

"Now I have a plan for financing the project on a group sponsorship basis. For example, think of the advertising possibilities of the thing! Are there any billboards on the moon? Are there any waffle irons, shaving creams, breakfast foods..."

"There aren't any people either, are there?"

Unlimited Opportunity

"Of course not; that's just it! It's virgin territory! Why, the big advertising accounts would jump a the chance to participate in the first trip to the moon."

"And the motion picture industry?" He smiled wisely. "As a matter of fact, I've already taken it up with the front office."

"In what way?"

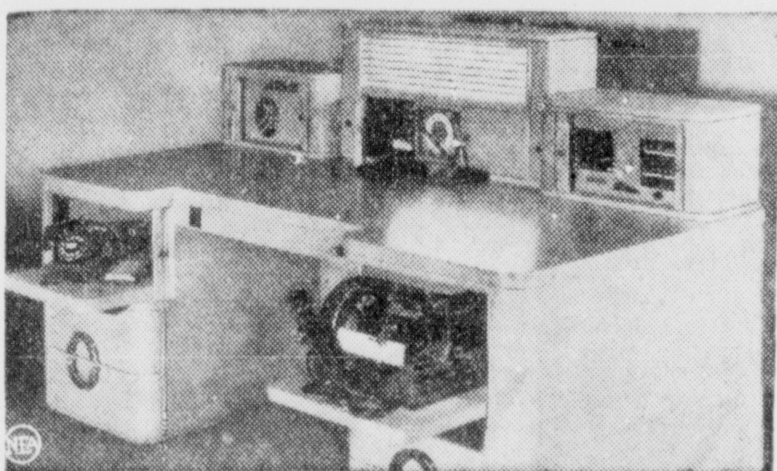

"Don't be a dope," he said, and nudged us. "How'd you like to go along to the first world premiere on the moon? Not world premiere; UNIVERSAL premiere, that is!"

Don't laugh brother; these press agents will try anything. As our friend said, he has his head together with Mr. Farnsworth, and Mr. Farnsworth says the moon is just around the corner. From now on, anything can happen.

But somehow we just can't picture Johnson lifting himself into a rocket to be shot out into interstellar space—not even for "Forever Amber."

One way, though, this moon stuff is encouraging. It shows that Hollywood is putting the war farther and farther behind it and getting ready to buckle down to normalcy.

Local Couple Is Married Recently
At Foster City

At the nine o'clock mass of the St. Joseph church of Foster City on November 9, Miss Iris Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Murray of LaBranche, became the bride of Clair Radle with Father Przybylski officiating. Mr. Radle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Radle of Harbor Springs, Mich. The organ music was played by Mrs. Dault of Powers.

The bride wore a white net covered satin gown fashioned with a form fitting neckline and a train. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, white pom-poms and pink snapdragons. Her jewelry was a pair of white pearls.

The bridesmaid, Mrs. Leonard Robinette, was dressed in a pale blue net covered satin gown with a form fitting neckline, her corsage was of red roses, white pom-poms and pink snapdragons.

Leonard Robinette was the best man.

The wedding dinner and supper was served at the bride's home where a three tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom decorated the table. The guests numbered over fifty. The bride's mother wore a wine dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses, white pom-poms and pink snapdragons.

The couple will remain at the bride's home until after the honeymoon when they will take a wedding trip to Harbor Springs before making their home at Battle Creek.

Mr. Radle is employed by the Battle Creek Union Steam Pump company and was employed here before entering service.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wechsler, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Myers and Mr. and Mrs. LaPointe Sr.

Rouge Will Mask
Over-Tired Face

BY ALICIA HART

For the skin that looks tired or blanched by fatigue at the end of the day, there's a daring pickup which you can dare to use for wear under night lights. That's a blended cream rouge, applied to face and neck.

The trick can be put across with the materials at hand, if you'll take a dab of the make-up cream that you regularly use and mix well with a dab of cream rouge on the blue-veined side. Blue-red is better able to resist the draining of electric lights than orange-red. The color that you want to get from your blend, however, is a robust pink.

The self-blended mixture must be applied sparingly. The best way to apply it for fool-the-eye effects is to dot it on like freckles, and blend uniformly with your finger tips. After the blending, take a sheet of tissue, and rub off any excess.

If cheeks can take a highlighting, dip into your pot of undiluted rouge for that. Then dust on your powder, and see if you recognize the blanched or tired face that first haunted your mirror.

SERVICE CLUBS HEAR JOHNSON

County Health Director
Gives Two Talks On Tuberculosis

The Michigan State Health department will send its mobile X-ray unit to Escanaba and Delta county in mid-December to offer free examinations for tuberculosis. Dr. Melvin Johnson, county health director, stated in talks at the meetings of the Kiwanis and Lions clubs Monday.

Dr. Johnson expressed the hope that some day all Delta county residents would avail themselves of the free X-ray service. Early detection of tuberculosis is half the fight against tuberculosis, he said. If early discovery can be made, it is quite possible that 90 per cent of the afflicted persons can be returned to normal life activities after receiving proper treatment and care.

While in Escanaba, the mobile X-ray unit will be located at the junior high school three days and at the senior high school two days. Dr. Johnson said that the equipment will take about three hundred 4 by 5 plates a day. Only a minute or less is required for each picture, as the subject can remain fully clothed while the X-ray is being taken.

There is no relation between races, nationalities and tuberculosis, but careful studies have revealed that economic status, including such factors as poverty and poor diet, is closely related to the disease, Dr. Johnson continued. He added that a survey made among Negroes and whites in the Detroit slum areas showed that the two races were equally affected.

Steady progress is being made in reducing the tuberculosis rate in Michigan, according to figures presented by Dr. Johnson. He pointed out that in 1936 there were 41 tuberculosis deaths per 100,000 population in Michigan, and by 1945 the rate had been reduced to 32. Wayne county is the chief trouble spot, probably due to migrations of poor whites and Negroes from Kentucky and other states in the South, which have high tuberculosis rates. Wayne county's rate was 57 in 1936 and 42 in 1945.

Tuberculosis deaths have ranged high in the Upper Peninsula. Dr. Johnson continued. In the four counties, Delta, Iron, Dickinson and Menominee, the death rate was 51 in 1941 and 52 in 1945. In the Copper Country, the figure declined from 64 in 1941 to 47 in 1945.

Air Movements
Scientists have figured that, as the seasons change, there is a movement of ten billion tons of air from one hemisphere of the earth to the other each six months.

1870 Railroad Tickets Now Collector's Items

By EDWARD S. KITCH

Chicago—(AP)—E. M. Eversole, 79-year-old retired trainman who has made a hobby of collecting railroad oddities, is reselling some of his prized collection of ancient railroad tickets as souvenirs of a bygone age.

The tickets, resembling bank note currency, were printed by the Bank Note Company of New York in a series of three values—one's, two's and five's. Dated July 1, 1873, they were issued by the South Carolina Railroad company. Slip number "one" entitled the bearer to ride 25 miles. Another numbered "two" was good for a ride of 25 miles for two passengers. Bill number "five" would carry a passenger 125 miles. Eversole believes that the bank note tickets probably came into use during the years when "hard money" was out of circulation and was difficult to obtain, particularly in the south.

As far as he can learn, the South Carolina railroad was chartered in December, 1827 as the Charleston and Hamburg, one of the first in the United States and the first railroad intended both for general public transportation and for locomotive operation. Construction was started in 1829. The road eventually ran 137 miles between Augusta, Ga., and Charleston, S. C., and the first train to complete the full trip pulled into Charleston Nov. 1, 1840.

Eversole obtained the tickets last year from a friend in Bloomington, Ill. Seven hundred of the bank note fares were found in a trunk stored in the attic of a house sold to close an estate.

In 50 years of collecting railroad oddities, Eversole has accumulated 274 different switch padlock keys, which he says represent most of the railroad lines in the United States.

Eversole began railroading in 1886, supervising work train crews on construction work for the Oregon and California line at Simms, Calif. In succeeding years he worked variously as brakeman, switchman and conductor.

George Palohelino, who has spent five months in Finland recently, presented two Finnish shows at the Eben High School on Friday evening, November 15. The shows pictured scenes from Finland before and after the bombings.

Following the shows, coffee was served for the benefit of Finnish Relief.

A large crowd attended and greatly enjoyed the shows.

DIES OF WOUNDS

Sault Ste. Marie—Mrs. Margaret Carr, 67, of Cedarville, died Friday, November 15, 1946 at 3:30 p. m. at the War Memorial Hospital as the result of gunshot wounds in the stomach.

The shooting, described by hospital officials as reported to them by relatives as self-inflicted, occurred Thursday evening at her home in Cedarville. Mrs. Carr was admitted to the hospital at 8:45 p. m. Thursday.

State police investigated the case.

Surviving Mrs. Carr are her husband, George and two sons.

With The Deer Hunters

Carlton R. Johnson, 1227 Stephenson Avenue, shot a spike horn 145 pound buck on Friday afternoon.

John Butryn, Joseph Butryn, and Louis Butryn of Schaffer, Harold Winchester, 617 South 18th street and Anthony Fassbender of Chicago shot their bucks at Camp Buckhorn at LaBranch. The deer ranged from 280 to 160 pounds, Louis Butryn having shot the largest.

John F. Bolger, Lake Shore road, shot a 130 pound spike horned buck Sunday morning while hunting at Woodlawn.

Walter Arntzen, Lake shore road, shot a 22 point buck at Phelps Sunday. His son, Norman, shot a six point deer.

Jack Gafney, 905 First avenue south, hung up a 170 pound deer shortly after the season opened while hunting near LaBranch.

Vern King of Flat Rock brought down a buck early Friday morning after hunting only thirty minutes.

Eli Sayen, 309 North 14th street hung up a 250 pound buck early this week. Officially it is the first deer to be brought in at Bill Richards camp in thirty years.

Bill Turner, 518 South 11th street, son of Mrs. Ann Turner, brought in his first buck Saturday morning. Nimrod Bill was hunting near Cedar River at LaBranch.

when he bagged the 150 pound, six point deer.

Clarence Schwartz of Wells, while hunting at Whitefish Hill Friday, hung up a 200 pound, nine point buck. Other members of the party were Ted Schwartz, Alvin and Hanley Scholow of Portland, Mich.

Clarence Schallock, 1012 Ninth avenue south, killed an eight point buck on opening day and William McGraw, also of Escanaba, bagged a six pointer the same day. Herbert Scheriff, 1020 Ninth avenue south, got a six point buck on Saturday. All were hunting near the Pocheki giver, Marquette county.

Tom Brayak of Hyde bagged a 250 pound bear near Ford River Switch.

Emile Erickson, Tenth Ave. S., got his first buck while hunting near the Ford River road. He reported sitting just five minutes before sighting the animal.

Gerletti Gets Big Buck

Hunting from the same stand for many years not far from Alfred Johnsen's Camp Michago near Alfred where he, Jim Sharpsteen and Alfred Johnsen spend the first week of every season, Hal Gerletti, 907 S. Thirteenth street, at long last connected with one of the largest bucks (well over 200 pounds) killed in that vicinity so far this season.

Alfred Johnsen and J. T. Sharpsteen got their (much smaller) bucks before seven the first day of the season.

QUEBEC'S BREWERIES

Although only eight of the 73 breweries in Canada are located in Quebec, this province produces approximately one-half of the total output of that industry.

Sales Tax Rebate May Give Escanaba $65,000

The city of Escanaba may benefit in an amount of $65,000 through rebate of the state sales tax under the provisions of the recently adopted constitutional amendment — but the state legislature may withhold about $57,000 from the city in intangibles tax and liquor license revenues if it seeks by that means to replenish the state treasury.

City Manager A. V. Aronson yesterday said that although the city council has discussed the matter of sales tax revenue, the whole situation is so unsettled that no plans of any kind are being made at this time for use of the additional revenue.

Whether Escanaba and other Michigan cities, townships and villages will materially benefit financially will depend upon the action of the legislature. If the legislature decides to take from the cities and townships the inintangibles tax and liquor license revenues they now receive, the financial gain for the local governmental units will be slight. Answer to the question will be known at the next session of legislature in January.

According to estimates made by the city manager, Escanaba may expect to receive about $65,000 in sales tax money rebated by the state. This is based on total sales tax revenue of 140 million dollars and the payment to the city on the basis of about $4.30 per capita.

On the same basis Gladstone would receive about $22,000 and the 14 townships would split about $43,000 according to the population in the individual townships. Villages also would share in the rebate. The only incorporated village in Delta county is Garden in Garden township.

In discussing the possibility that the legislature may withdraw the payments of intangibles and liquor license revenues to townships and cities, the Escanaba city manager said that if that is done Escanaba would lose about $57,000 annually.

At least that is the amount the city received from those two sources last year. The intangibles tax revenue to the city was $18,092 and the liquor license fund $39,641 or a total of $57,733.

Otto Lindens Have
Silver Wedding
Party on Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lindens, River Road, Manistique, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on Friday, Nov. 15, at a party at their home attended by 29 relatives and friends.

Lawrence Strasser acted as toastmaster for the evening's entertainment which included music and cards and group singing when the guests sang "I Love You Truly."

A supper was served the guests at the close of the party. Mr. Lindens' anniversary gift to his wife was a lovely ring. The couple received many fine gifts and a sum of money.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindens were married Nov. 15, 1921 in Manistique at the parsonage of the First Baptist church. A Rev. Webster performed the ceremony. Both Mr. and Mrs. Lindens are life long residents of the city. She is the former Mollie Knuth.

Two children, Mrs. Paul McPherson of Tampa, Fla., and Pfc. Eldred Lindens of the military police station at Fort Custer, Mich., were not able to attend.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Joseph Davis and children, Joe-Nel and Joe Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Crandall and children, Connie and Thomas and Garth Thorne and daughter, Doris, of Flint.

Botanist's Array
Of Alaska Plants
Now Tops 15,000

Ames, Ia.—(AP)—Dr. J. P. Anderson, 72-year-old botanist at Iowa State college, is busy these days adding several hundred new specimens to his private collection of Alaskan plants. It is the largest such collection in existence.

The latest additions were gathered by Dr. Anderson on a recent 9,250-mile automobile trip to the territory over the Alcan highway. His two-month trip yielded some species never before collected in that region.

Dr. Anderson estimates that his Alaskan collection includes somewhere between 15,000 and 20,000 specimens. He says he has been too busy in recent years to make an accurate count.

The botanist began his collection in 1914 when he joined the staff of the experiment station at Sitka. He continued the work from 1917 to 1927 when he operated a flower shop at Juneau. His field expeditions have ranged from the Aleutian chain to Point Barrow.

Shower

Miss Helen Rodmonich was the guest of honor at a delightful shower party Saturday evening in the K. of C. hall.

Five hundred was played during the evening and prizes were awarded to Florence Norton, Mrs. Henry Jahn and Josephine Busch. Mrs. Howard Williams received the special award.

A delicious lunch was served at the close of the games.

Miss Rodmonich, who will become the bride of Dale Williams on Thanksgiving Day, was presented with many lovely and useful gifts.

Mrs. Albert Mulhaupt and Mrs. Addie Williams Sr., were the hostesses.

Miss T. J. Weber
Bride Of L. Gray
In Ceremony Here

Miss Theresa Jane Weber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weber, 111 Walnut street, became the bride of Lloyd Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, 207 North First street, in a double ring ceremony performed Saturday morning.

Rev. Fr. B. J. P. Schevers performed the ceremony at an 8 o'clock mass at St. Francis de Sales church. Music for the wedding was sung by the church choir.

The bride was attended by her sister, Glenadine Weber as maid of honor and by the bridegroom's sister, Miss June Gray as bridesmaid. Duke Deloria, a brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Roy Riley, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a white floor length marquisette gown with fingertip veil and matching accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and pink snapdragons.

Miss Weber wore a light green floor length gown and Miss Gray a pink floor length gown and each carried bouquets similar to the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Weber wore a black dress with a corsage of red roses and Mrs. Gray wore a cream print dress with corsage similar to Mrs. Weber's.

A dinner was served at Denny's Cafe for 35 guests, with a tiered wedding cake and a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and baby mums as centerpiece.

A reception was held during the afternoon at the bride's home. The couple will make their home at 745 Garden avenue.

The bride attended Manistique high school and the bridegroom is a graduate of Cooks high school and was discharged from the navy in January of this year after four years of service.

Scouts To Sing
For City Shut-Ins

Court of Honor
Held at Garden

A court of honor of the Boy Scouts of America was held in Garden Wednesday evening, with approximately one hundred in attendance. Troops from Manistique, Cooks Garden and Nahma were represented. A fair turnout of parents were present to witness the ceremony.

The court of honor was under the direction of Edward LaMott of Garden, and supported by Gene Stewart, Frank Tebo and Rev. Fr. Sterbenz of Garden; James Roddy, Al Hescott and Leo Pintal of Nahma; and Rev. William Harvey of Manistique.

The ceremony opened with the call to the colors by Scout Donald Foye of Manistique, followed by the presentation of the colors by Troop 462, under the direction of Scoutmaster Louis Rogers also of Manistique.

The formal opening of the court by Mr. LaMott set the tempo for the ceremony. Mr. LaMott expressed his appreciation for the turnout of the Scouts and their leaders, and to the parents and others in the audience, and urged that continued support of the Boy Scouts be increased.

Tenderfoot awards were presented to Scouts Richard Boudreau, Troop 425 of Garden, and to three Scouts of Troop 421 of Nahma, Ronald Hescott, John Gerou, and one other Scout whose name was not obtained. Awards were presented by Scoutmaster James Roddy of Nahma.

Second Class awards were presented by Edward LaMott of Garden to Scouts of Troop 462 of Manistique: Duane DeSautel, Kenneth Bryant, Michael Schultz, Wallace St. John, Clare Peterson, Carlsson, Mrs. Otis Nelson and Mrs. Charles Garvin. All members and friends are invited to attend.

First Class awards were presented by Leo Pintal of Nahma to Scouts George Babladelis of Troop 461 of Manistique, and Bill Mueller. Troop 462 was awarded First Class ranks to Duane DeSautel, Kenneth Bryant, Michael Schultz, Wallace St. John and Clare Peterson.

Merit badges were awarded by Frank Tebo and Gene Stewart to Duane DeSautel in dog care, bird study, machinery, and conservation; Michael Schultz, farm home and its planning, forestry, corn farming, wood carving, conservation, soil management, machinery, farm home and building arrangement, and bird study; Wallace St. John, dog care, machinery, bird study, pathfinding, and rabbit raising; Donald Sangrau, public health, and farm home and its planning. All the above Scouts were from Troop 462, sponsored by the Lions Club of Manistique.

The following Scouts of Troop 461 of Manistique, under the leadership of Ben Karwoski, and sponsored by the Rotary Club, received the following merit badges: Mike Shaw, firemanship, public health, personal health, safety, and physical development; Ronald Morton, safety, reading, physical development, public and personal health, home repairs, firemanship, and carpentry. Iggy Babladelis, firemanship, reading, personal and public health, safety, and physical development; Donald Foye, life saving, personal and public health, and physical development; Henry Gray, physical development; John Reque, firemanship, public health, physical development, safety, and personal health; Howard Hartman, firemanship, and safety.

Also from Garden, Gerald Tarrow, firemanship; Wayne LaCost, poultry raising; and James LaCost, firemanship.

The Star award was presented to five Scouts by Assistant Scoutmaster Al Hescott of Nahma to Mike Shaw, Ronald Morton, Iggy Babladelis and William Mueller of Troop 461, and to John Tobin of Troop 421.

Life award was presented to Donald Foye of Troop 461 by Edward LaMott.

Training certificates for the completion of the fundamentals of Scouting and the training course for Scoutmasters were presented to Scoutmasters James Roddy, Ben Karwoski and A. D. Hescott. Public recognition was extended to these men who are giving of their time to provide themselves with further knowledge of their position in Scouting.

WEDDING

Munising—Miss Bonita J. Thomas of AuTrain and Curtis Edward Martin, AuTrain were married by the Justice of the Peace on November 15, it was announced by the Judge office yesterday.

in Clallam County, Washington, reserved for one man who doesn't live there.

He is Elliott Anderson, 70-year-old widower and one-man Indian tribe, last survivor of the once populous Ozette tribe and therefore sole owner of tribal rights to the reservation.

His wild, roadless estate of forest and ocean beach is now uninhabited. Anderson lives with friends on the Makah reservation at Neah Bay, Wash.

How Tribe Vanished
In 1939, while still living on the Ozette reserve, he applied as the last living Ozette for the $71.53 remaining in the tribal funds. He received the money, that being the first time in Indian Service history that tribal funds were turned over to one man.

Anderson was born in 1876 near the Ozette river. Two devastating smallpox epidemics struck the tribe at about that time. In the early 80's a count showed 67 members left. In 1906 there were 35, and in 1923, eight.

The Ozettes once were mighty fishermen. Stories are still told of whaling and sealing expeditions so dangerous that only the strongest men could take part.

Started an Indian Legend
Anderson was educated at the Makah Reservation school at Baha-da Point. Later he became a telephone line repairman. One of his favorite stories concerns the time when, from the top of a tall tree, he saw a group of Indian youths and maidens who had had much "firewater."

Cupping his hands, he sang an ancient song. Frightened by the music apparently coming from the air, the young people ran, and Anderson privately enjoyed the weird stories which circulated among the tribe the next day.

The Ozette reservation was established by Executive Order in 1893. It is within the jurisdiction of the Eaholah Indian Agency of which George P. LaVatta is superintendent. Once it was famous for cedar which the Ozettes used for canoe making and for barter with their friends, the Makahs on the north and the Quileutes and the Quinalts on the south. Timber nearly covers the reservation now but it is of poor quality and largely inaccessible. Future development of the reservation would depend on the building of roads.

U.P. Golden Gloves Tournament Planned Here Jan. 27-28, Feb. 3

Michigan-MSU Game Puzzle Tossed Back In Lap Of Spartans

East Lansing, Nov. 18 (AP)—The Michigan State College Athletic Board will meet "within the next day or two" to decide on an answer to the proposal sent the college by University of Michigan today regarding future Spartan-Wolverine football relationships.

Dean L. C. Emmons, chairman of the MSC Athletic Board, said he would call the meeting as soon as possible, adding he "doubted" if a joint meeting of the Schools' Athletic Boards "could accomplish very much."

"As I see it, we'll have two questions to decide," Emmons declared. "One will be whether we will want to play Michigan here next year and the other, whether we will agree to play the opener at Ann Arbor after that, until the 1952 season, as Mr. Crisler says is Michigan's only alternative."

"I have no idea that we will commit ourselves that far in advance," he declared.

By JOSEPH H. KARSHNER
Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 18 (AP)—The Spartan-Wolverine football scheduling problem, which in the past three weeks has been shoved around like an unwanted offspring today was re-deposited on the Michigan State College doorstep by Fritz Crisler, University of Michigan athletic director.

Revealing the contents of a message he dispatched to Spartan Athletic Director Ralph H. Young last Saturday, Crisler said Michigan's Board in Control of Intercollegiate Athletics had agreed on the following policy:

1. To offer to play the M. S. C. Michigan game Sept. 27, 1947, at East Lansing's Macklin Field, to comply with an M. S. C. campus registration rule that Spartan team can play at Ann Arbor at that time.

2. To offer no assurance of a football date with M. S. C. later than a season opener at least until after 1952.

Previously the M. S. C. Athletic Council had agreed to accept the Sept. 27 date, with the qualifying assurance that Michigan "in 1948 and future seasons" would schedule the game "on some date which follows the opening of fall quarter classes at Michigan State College."

"This will advise you," Crisler's message said, "our board has voted with regret that because of our existing schedule commitments and—regulations of the (Western) conference—it is impossible for us to give you assurance for which you ask."

Emphasizing his hope that the two intrastate rivals, who have met 39 times, would maintain their annual football warfare, Crisler declared renewal of the series beyond the 1947 season would be up to M. S. C.

"We're only trying to go along with them—we don't know what they'll do," Crisler told his Press conference. Well go up there at a considerable sacrifice, you can see that."

The "sacrifice," he explained, would be a loss of turnstile profits because Macklin Field can seat approximately 30,000 spectators. This year at Ann Arbor a series record of 77,134 fans saw Michigan win a lopsided 55-7 victory over the Spartans.

Coupon ticket book holders at both schools—students, faculty men, administrative employees and others—would more than fill the stands at East Lansing and leave, at best, only a small margin of general admission spectators, Crisler declared.

This year Michigan has at least 23,000 coupon book holders and expects more next season, while M. S. C. with a 13,000 enrollment will have at least that many book holders next year.

Michigan's Athletic Department, unlike M. S. C.'s State supported setup, operates independently and is financed almost entirely out of football profits, Crisler pointed out, and loss of gate receipts figures in the sports budget.

Commenting on scheduling problems, Crisler reiterated that at least six conference games are compulsory—sometimes seven because Michigan has several rivals booked annually—and a big nine school can go into a schedule meeting with only one outside date cinched.

In 1948, '49 and '50, Crisler said, he will have non-conference dates set with Navy and Army, and in '51 and '52 he might have Stanford, which has a four-year series signed with the Wolverines.

"We can't settle the future with any institution, even a conference school," the Michigan athletic director declared.

At East Lansing, Young said he had "no comment" because any decision would be up to the M. S. C. Athletic Council, but he added that he viewed the situation "with optimism." We indicated that the proposed 1947 game a East Lansing gave a ray of hope for continuation of the ancient gridiron series.

Dean L. C. Emmons, chairman of the Athletic Board and President John A. Hannah both were out of the city and could not be reached for comment.

BOUTS WILL BE AT JUNIOR HIGH

Qualifiers From 6 Districts To Compete At Escanaba

Preliminary plans for the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves boxing tournament have been made by the committee representing the Escanaba Lions club and Escanaba Daily Press, co-sponsors of the event.

The tournament will be conducted at the junior high school gymnasium in Escanaba January 27-28 and Feb. 3. Qualifiers from six sub-regional tournaments in the peninsula will compete at Escanaba.

Sub-regional centers will be located at Ironwood, Houghton, Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie, Iron Mountain and Manistique. In general these tournaments will be run off two to three weeks in advance of the U. P. finals at Escanaba.

Attractive Awards
Champions in all weight divisions of both the open and novice classes will receive all-expense trips to Milwaukee to compete in the Milwaukee zone Golden Gloves tournament and, in addition, will qualify for additional awards to be announced later.

All boxers competing in the U. P. Golden Gloves at Escanaba will receive a felt emblem and all who win at least one bout will receive a golden glove. Special prizes will be awarded to champions and runners-up in each division.

In the Delta-Schoolcraft district, training centers have been established at Escanaba, Nahma and Manistique. Boxers in this district will compete in the qualifying matches at Manistique early in January. The Nahma center is being conducted by Ray Good-nough, veteran Escanaba boxer, and seven or eight boxers are expected from there.

The Escanaba center, located in the fairgrounds, is open each afternoon and evening, but Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights particularly have been set aside for amateur boxers in the 16 and over age group.

Entry forms for the Manistique tournament will be available soon.

RED MEDDING UNPOPULAR IN CIO'S AFFAIRS

right to "crucify" labor.

Murray said: "The boom is on and if there is a continuation of this staggering profit, the bust is inevitable."

He said that although his steelworkers earned about $56.32 a week—result of the 18½ cents-an-hour pay increase they won in March, 1946—the purchasing power of a steelworker's pay check had fallen to $40.20 a week.

He said rising prices since March had wiped out wage gains. Of the Republicans he said: "Does anyone think the American voters gave the Republican party a mandate to put a cross on the back of labor, march it to Capitol Hill, and there witness the crucifixion of American labor?" "No, no, they can't do that to the American people."

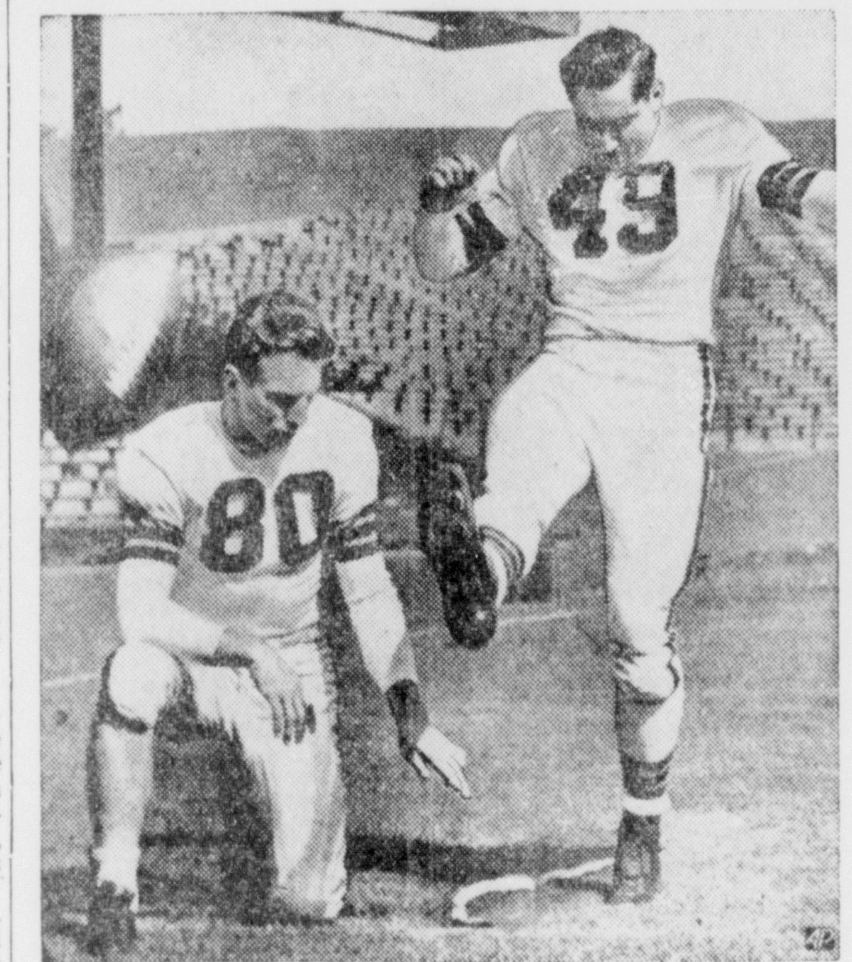

In a message to Murray, President Truman said these are exciting and dangerous times."

Truman said the establishment of an economic balance demanded the "hearty cooperation of industry, labor and a government dedicated to the common good." He said that too often in the past labor-management agreements were fixed by "raw economic power which took no account of human values or human needs."

T-Shaped Tape Aids Field Goal Accuracy

Lou (The Toe) Groza, amazing place-kicker of the Cleveland Browns, boots the oval with Don Greenwood holding. Note tape with which Groza measures his kicks.

By JIM BECKER
In these shortage-ridden days, when a pro football team owner merrily parts with hard-to-get items it's unusual.

The owner in question, Arthur McBride of the Cleveland Browns, grins when fans cart away nearly unattainable footballs, for chances are they were booted into the stands by one Lou (The Toe) Groza, a substitute tackle whose kicking put him on top of the All-America Conference scoring list.

Groza is place-kicking an amazing string of points after touchdown for the Browns and his field goal booting ability has pro football fans comparing him with Jack Manders of the Chicago Bears.

Groza achieves his T-square accuracy with the assistance of a T-shaped hunk of tape. He carries it in his helmet, and hauls it out when called on to kick.

The measuring device is made of a four-foot piece of tape for a direction line with a much shorter piece attached to one end, forming the cross bar of the T. Groza uses the tape to eliminate as much of the human element from his booting as possible.

He points the direction line straight at the uprights, and has the ball-holder plant the oval at the spot where the pieces of tape are joined. Then, with head down, he sights on the direction line, measures his steps and kicks.

Groza is deadly accurate from any spot inside the 35-yard line, and seldom misses from as far back as midfield. In fact, once the Browns cross the center stripe they never punt. Should their attack stall, Groza drops back, spreads his T-square and attempts a placement. The attempt is as good as a punt, and the threat of three points is ever present.

The high-scoring tackle is 22, weighs 215 and is six foot three. He carries a piston-punch in his right leg.

Groza is not a good tackle in comparison with the powerful linemen who play that position regularly for the Browns. But Coach Paul Brown is convinced that the lad will develop into a top lineman.

Added to the old situation which has a substitute swiping the limelight and topping the league scoring race is the fact that Lou never played college football. Hailing from Martins Ferry, O., Lou was a standout in high school and was named All-Ohio scholar-ship in his final year. At Ohio State, Groza played freshman

PACKERS BEAT DETROIT AGAIN

Green Bay Scores 9-0 Victory Over Lions Sunday

Detroit, Mich.—Green Bay's Packers won a football game the laborious way here Sunday afternoon, grinding out some 19 first downs, piling up huge yardage chokin' off every enemy threat, and finally settling for a rather scant 9-0 victory.

It was Green Bay's second triumph of this kind over the men of Gus Dorais. Three weeks ago, the Packers also snorted and puffed to beat the Lions in Milwaukee, 10-7.

A 14 yard field goal by Ted Fritsch midway through the third quarter broke a scoreless tie, and a touchdown by Fritsch early in the fourth quarter cinched the victory. Fritsch's attempt for the extra point was blocked.

It was Green Bay's game by a wide margin in everything except the score. Out in midfield or in their own territory, the Packers moved around freely enough. Down in close, however, they ran into all manner of trouble. Either penalties stopped them, or loose ball handling which cost yardage or sloppy blocking which on attempted passes was especially costly.

The passer was smeared. It was not until the 22,950 in the stands began to have some faint visions of a scoreless tie, as the game was being played, that the Packers finally pulled themselves together in the second half, squeezed a little harder, and produced their winning points.

One Lion Threat

The Lions were never in the game except for their occasional defensive stands and one real scoring threat in the second quarter. On a long pass, they reached Green Bay's 12, but lost the ball immediately on an interception.

Except for this, they rarely got beyond midfield.

It was Fritsch, the league's leading scorer, who got the points, but it was Abernethy and Walt Schlinkman who did the heavy work in the two marches which led up to them. Abernethy, with his passing and running both, did the heavy work in achieving position for Fritsch's three pointers. Schlinkman, with a 36 yard run, picked up most of the yardage in the drive which Fritsch finally capped with his touchdown from the one foot line. Abernethy, in addition, played an outstanding defensive game.

The victory, Green Bay's fifth against three defeats, left the Packers firmly entrenched in second place in the western division of the league. The defeat mired the Lions a little deeper in the basement.

Addressing the Herald-American Quarterback meeting, the Hawkeye mentor, himself back from military medical service, asserted:

"I have never had a team that got a bigger kick out of playing a game on Saturday than my bunch of Iowa kids this year. But I never had one, either, that detested practice like this one."

"All in all, considering the beating those ex-veterans took in military routine, the GI's have done a grand job coming back to football. They can't be driven the way younger boys can, but they know what their mission is each week and they are doing their best."

Dr. Anderson rated Notre Dame, which whipped Iowa 41-6, as the strongest team encountered by the Hawkeyes this season. The T-formation's popularity will continue for some time, he said, but probably will be mixed with more single wingback and other types of offense in the near future.

Red Grange, Illinois' famed "Galloping Ghost" of the mid-twenties, selected an all-time professional team composed of Bill Hewitt (Chicago Bears) and Guy Chamberlain (Chicago Cardinals), ends; Fred Gillies (Cardinals) and Cal Hubbard (Green Bay Packers), tackles; Hunk Anderson (Bears) and Danny Fortmann (Bears), guards; Bulldog

Turner (Bears), center; Dutch Clark (Detroit Lions), quarterback; George McAfee (Bears) and Cliff Battles (Washington Redskins), halfbacks; and Bronko Nagurski (Bears), fullback.

Only three Mississippi football players are from out of state.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The Escanaba high school has voted in favor of the proposal to send Upper Peninsula basketball champions to Lower Peninsula tournaments. An advisory vote is now being taken on the subject by the Upper Peninsula Athletic Council and it is expected that the announcement of the results will be made at the next meeting of the council. If the schools approve the idea, it probably would go into effect for the 1948 tournament program. It could not be effective this season because it first would require a complete revision of schedules. U. P. tournaments will have to be moved up one week.

In voting to approve the participation of U. P. basketball champions in the Lower Peninsula tournaments, Escanaba school officials felt that it would serve to stimulate basketball enthusiasm among the fans and players. Since only championship teams in each class would qualify for the Lower Peninsula regionals, the individual schools would be affected by the revision rather infrequently. Escanaba high school, for instance, has won the U. P. championship only twice in history.

Menominee and Marinette are experimenting with something new in basketball schedules this season and next. On Jan. 3 Menominee will play Merrill and Marinette will meet Antigo in a doubleheader at Antigo. The next night, Jan. 4, the teams will shift to Merrill for a similar program, with the teams reversed. The contract for the series provides for a repeat performance the following season at Menominee and Marinette. It is an interesting idea and the results undoubtedly will be watched with keen attention in the Upper Peninsula and in Northern Wisconsin.

It seems that the extravagant estimates of Bob Feller's earnings in 1946, running as high as $175,000 which would make him the highest money earner in baseball history, are somewhat exaggerated. Feller, eager to keep the federal tax inspectors off his neck, revealed that his earnings from all sources this year will be between $95,000 and $100,000. His salary with the Indians was "in excess of $50,000" but his take on the barnstorming trip was grossly misreported, Feller said, and the estimate of $45,000 from endorsements is a far cry from the actual receipts of about $10,000. In any event, Feller isn't exactly worried about the wolf at the door.

Hit and Miss—Hank Greenberg is all through as a first baseman. This report, first spilled by Harry Heilmann on his speaking tour of the U. P., was confirmed this week by Steve O'Neill, Tiger boss. If Greenberg plays at all in 1947, it will be in the outfield. Dizzy Trout will not be traded by the Tigers this season. Five pitchers are definitely set for 1947—Newhouse, Trout, Trucks, Hutchinson and the Tiger rookie, Art Houtteman. The Tigers would like to get infield replacements, however.

Mrs. America Gives Up Prize; Children And Family First

Columbus, O., Nov. 18 (AP)—Mrs. Janice Pollock has decided definitely to relinquish the title of "Mrs. America of 1946" which she won in a contest at Jackson, Miss., last Wednesday.

Her husband, Mark Pollock, reported tonight that she had telephoned Burt Tibbott, contest manager at Jackson, that she was "relinquishing the title altogether."

The pretty, 24-year-old housewife abdicated the honor and gave up a $2,500 prize because acceptance would have required her to go on a 20 weeks tour of the country.

Pollard said his wife based her decision on her announcement last week following the contest when she said "it was far more important to stay here and be a mother to the children than any amount of glory or money from the contest."

The Pollocks have four children, Susan, 6; Tommy, 5; Mark, 2, and Bobby, 16 months.

Mrs. Pollock's decision had been delayed by discussions of a compromise offer with the contest sponsors.

ROTARY HEARS GOV. LINDSAY

Rotary District Official
Says Service Begins
With Individual

The Escanaba Rotary club at its meeting yesterday noon had as its speaker Harold Lindsay, district governor, whose address to the club was his first as an official of Rotary International. Lindsay was elected governor of the 143rd district at the district convention held last spring in Escanaba. The district comprises the Upper Peninsula and Northern Wisconsin.

Since its founding 35 years ago in Chicago, Lindsay said, Rotary has grown until its now has 280,000 members in 13 countries in the world. New clubs are being organized and it is expected that by the anniversary date of Rotary 6,000 new clubs will have been formed.

The aims and objects of Rotary, what service Rotarians give to the club, their community and their vocation was described by the district governor, who challenged Rotarians as individuals to conduct their lives and their business according to the ideals of Rotary.

In the field of international service, Rotary is a potent force for good in the promotion of understanding and peace, Lindsay said.

He again cited the importance of the individual in efforts to attain world peace, and declared that talk that the United Nations cannot be successful should be stopped. International service for the Rotarian begins at home, he said, and efforts toward peace should receive support and be given an opportunity to succeed.

Musical entertainment at the meeting was presented by Miss Toni Giansanti, who played two piano solos.

Hunter Loses Pride
And A Hunting Dog

Des Moines—(P)—The man in the elevator of a Des Moines hotel where dogs are barred was dressed in hunting attire.

Said another passenger, "Going hunting?"

"Yes," said the hunter.

"Got a dog?" said the other man.

"Yeah," said the hunter in a confidential whisper, "and getting him into this hotel was the slickest trick I ever pulled. Nobody saw us and the dog is up in my room right now. Are you a hunter too?"

"No," beamed the other fellow with his best smile, "I'm the manager of this hotel."

The giant liner Queen Elizabeth can accommodate 2,316 passengers.

Infantile Paralysis Cases Are Declining

Washington—The nation's health is in good shape so far as epidemic diseases are concerned, latest reports to the U. S. Public Health Service here show.

Infantile paralysis cases continued to decrease. Exclusive of Iowa whose report has not yet been received, cases for the week ending Nov. 9 totaled 460, compared with 535 for the same states the week of Nov. 2. Illinois, California and Wisconsin reported the largest number of cases.

Total polio cases for the year will reach the 25,000 mark, health officials now believe.

Deaths from infantile paralysis are only slightly above the number in 1945, the U. S. Census Bureau finds in analyzing reports from a 10% sample of the population at large. The analysis covers deaths from polio through the end of August, by which time cases of the disease were twice as many as the total through the end of August, 1945.

Continental United States has 256 religious bodies with 253,717, 762 churches and a membership of 72,492,669 in 1945.

QUICK-FREEZER AIDS FARMERS

Much Valuable Milk Is Saved For Feeding
Calves

Madison, Wis.—Use of quick-freeze units by farmers can result in the raising of fatter, sleeker and healthier calves with a saving of marketable milk, according to N. N. Allen, dairy husbandman at the University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture here.

Mr. Allen explained that a newly freshened cow gives an especially rich milk known as "colostrum" which contains more yellow carotene and vitamin A than ordinary milk. This milk, however, is not marketable, so what the calf cannot drink in the three days it is produced is milked out and thrown away.

Research at the College of Agriculture has now shown that colostrum milk can be kept as long as a year, if properly frozen, and thus can be used up entirely in feeding the calf, with benefits to both the calf, which thrives on it, and to the farmer, who can market fresh milk he otherwise would have to feed to the calf.

It was found that the handiest method of freezing is to use containers with just the right amount of milk for a feeding and feeding the milk according to the production days; in other words, that milked first to be fed first. In winter, it was found, outdoor freezing is just as good as use of a quick-freeze unit, provided the milk is not allowed to thaw. Mr. Allen says the extra work involved is fully justified by the results attained in extra benefits to the calf.

John McCarthy, 43, Dies of Injuries

Green Bay, Wis.—John McCarthy, 43, head of the McCarthy Oil company, Marinette, died about 10 o'clock Saturday morning in a Green Bay hospital, from injuries sustained Thursday evening when his coupe collided head-on with a large semi-trailer on Highway 41-141, about a half mile north of Duck Creek.

He had been unconscious with head and chest injuries ever since the accident, and little hope had been held for his recovery. Oxygen had been administered constantly.

The company which he started in 1922 operates stations in Green Bay, Oconto, Marinette, Menominee, Iron Mountain and other upper Michigan points, with its principal plant at Marinette.

Born Aug. 23, 1903, in Gladstone, Minn., he spent three years in the Navy and after his discharge went to work in the oil fields. Upon coming to Marinette, he entered the retail field. During World War II, he was a technician for Lockheed Aircraft, and served with the Eighth Army Air Force in Northern Ireland. He was a member of Our Lady of Lourdes

Milk Mixture for Stomach Ulcers

A recent medical discovery now used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcers caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective, in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion, heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of LURIN from their druggist. LURIN contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoons in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by City Drug Store and drug stores everywhere.

Iron Mountain—Walter Schrader and Omer LaJeunesse, athletic directors in Kingsford and Iron Mountain High, were guests of the Kiwanis club at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Dickinson hotel. Other guests at the meeting, conducted by Clark McGreggor, president, were Alvin B. Johnson and William Wood, past presidents of the Battle Creek Kiwanis club, and Harold Dooze, manager of the Iron Mountain office of Household Finance.

Schrader discussed the need in Iron Mountain and Kingsford of more playgrounds, ice rinks and diversified recreation. LaJeunesse described training and playing methods of widely-known football teams.
